On the Prowl—Her guns manned and smoke belching from her funnel, a British destroyer cuts through the choppy waters of the North Sea . . . ready for action. Her job is the difficult one of hunting down Nazi submarines that have been prowling off Britain . . . sinking thousands of tons of shipping and breaking up convoys. ITALY'S WAR CHIEF OUSTED

BOMB HIT

ROME, Dec. 6 (INS) — Field Marshal Pietro Badoglio has been removed from his post as chief of the Italian general staff, it was announced today.

VISITOR

BRIDGE BLASTED IN RESIDENCE—Strange aftermath of a Nazi air raid on London is this, apparently the work of a time bomb which had dropped against the base on the building. A clean hole was blasted in the structure, leaving the topmost floor to form a bridge over the gap.

He has been replaced by Gen. Ugo Cavallero, the announcement said.

A royal decree was issued accepting the resignation of Badoglio and naming Cavallero as chief of staff in command of all Italian forces.

The initial announcement gave no reason for the switch. But it was presumed to reflect Premier Mussolini's dissatisfaction over the course of the campaign against Greece, which has resulted in continued Greek successes against the Italians in Albania.—Editor's note.

By Associated Press
Cavallero, who is 60, nine years younger than Badoglio, first fought in the Libyan war of 1912-1913 and won the bronze medal for military valor.

At the beginning of the World War he served as an aide to the DAWN VISITOR—Awakening after a night in their cramped shelter in South London, these children were greeted by Queen Elizabeth, who had come at dawn to see how the youngsters weathered the night. Acts like this have made the Queen the most woman in England.

On-Rushing Greeks Capture Porto Edda

ATHENS, Dec. 6 (INS)—Victorious Greek troops surged into the Albanian cities of Porto Edda and Argirocastro today as Mussolini's vanquished legions fled in panic and disorder to the north.

Full Greek occupation of the two key points from which Italy had planned to invade and subjugate Greece was signaled when the blue and white striped flag of the Hellenic Kingdom was ceremoniously flown from the town halls of both cities.

Dispatches reaching the Yugoslav border said Greek troops which occupied Argirocastro, took more than 1000 prisoners. A number of heavy cannon, machine-guns and other war material.—Editor's Note.

A brief official announcement told of the latest and most significant Greek victories since mountain warriors took Koritza and broke the back of the Italian invasion at its outset.

According to all indications in Athens, the Italians appeared to be quitting all of southern Albania as speedily as possible.

Fires were observed at both Porto Edda and Argirocastro and it was believed the Italians were destroying war materials rather than let them fall into the hands of the

BRITISH SHIP, NAZI RAIDER IN BATTLE

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP)—A fierce, long-range encounter between a German disguised raider and the British 20,122-ton armed merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle, in which the British ship suffered "slight damage" and the German was said to have fled, was reported today by the admiralty.

It was learned authoritatively the battle occurred in the South Atlantic approximately 700 miles northeast of Montevideo, Uruguay, where three British cruisers drove the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee to self-destruction last December, which would be well within the American neutrality zone.

The admiralty said only that the battle took place "somewhere in the South Atlantic." It acknowledged some casualties aboard the Carnarvon Castle.

Information reaching informed quarters in Buenos Aires indicated the engagement occurred within or near the American neutrality zone.

A German announcement said that a British military cruiser had been "severely damaged" in an engagement in the south Atlantic. Continued on Page 20, Column 5

Nazi Bombers Kill Many in Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH, England, Dec. 6 (AP)—German bombers sweeping over in waves killed a number of persons and inflicted heavy damage to private property in this south coast naval base last night in a concentrated, three-hour assault.

A large number of persons were made homeless by the bombs, which were declared to have been aimed at the civilian population. Rescue workers dug into debris of levelled homes throughout the day in search of possible victims.

DAMAGED AREAS INSPECTED—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison, here for a speech, inspected the damaged areas.

The full extent of casualties was not determined immediately, as workers still were digging into the debris of wrecked homes for possible victims when dawn came. Officials said the number, however, was "fewer than might be expected considering the severity of the attack."

The raid was declared to have been concentrated on the civilian population.

MANY HOMES DESTROYED

Many of those whose homes were splintered were given temporary shelter in schools and other public buildings.

A tremendous anti-aircraft barrage kept the bombers at great height, but the first waves dropped flares which guided the subsequent formations to their target.

The German radio, describing

16 Revere Schools Aid Yule Ship Drive

By JAMES DOOLING

Students of 16 Revere public schools, enlisted in the campaign to load a CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR ENGLAND for the civilian victims of Hitler's bombing raids, chose their own unique method of collecting clothing and shoes today.

Each school has entered in competition with the others, to spur on the efforts of all students and to determine which shall have collected the largest number of serviceable contributions during the next few days.

The Record-American Christmas ship campaign was officially indorsed for the schools by Supt. Carl F. Lindstol and a preliminary meeting of all teachers was held in Revere High School before the actual competition.

"This is a remarkable humanitarian enterprise by these newspapers," Dr. Lindstol told the teachers and faculty of the high school, "and we will do our best to lend a hand."

Copies of the list of garments most needed by homeless British civilians were given to all teachers and instructors so that they might explain them to their students.

Other stories and general information on "A Christmas Ship for England," will be found on pages 12, 43, 44, 45 and 46.

Many of the boys and girls in the high school reported that they would use family automobiles—with permission—to gather in their donations and bring them to the central receiving station for the schools.

Salem school officials have given their approval to participation by their students in the Christmas Ship drive and the activities also began there today.

MR. AND MRS. IN UMMER—The engagement of Deanna Durbin, film songstress above, to Vaughn Paul, youthful movie producer, today had been announced by the film star's parents on the occasion of their daughter's 19th birthday. The wedding is expected neisummer.

SUING MAN PEEKS AT DIARY, TELLS OF TRYSTS BY WIFE

SALEM, Dec. 6—The oldocial amenities, it seems, are always preserved in Peabody st., even under trying circumstances—such, for instance, as coming upon your wife hugging and kissing another man in a car at 2:30 a. m.

"Would you care to give me your name?" asked Maurice Bliss politely, as he detailed the scene today.

"No," replied the stranger, not so politely, but perhaps he was not from old Salem and could hardly be expected to act otherwise.

Still gracious, Bliss intruded no further and contented himself with jutting down the registration number of the car, then driving away.

SEEK SON'S CUSTODY

Bliss seeks a court decree that he is living apart from his 19-year-old wife, Elizabeth, for justifiab cause and he asks custody of their two-year-old son, Kenneth.

A leather worker living in Burridge st., the 21-year-old husband had much recourse while on the witness stand to a diary in which, he said, he had kept detailed account of Betty's strays since they were married on July 13, 1933.

"Do you know John Lewis?" he was asked by his counsel, William H. McSweeney.

"Yes," replied Bliss. "I have seen him talking to my wife at the gate five or six times."

FOUND BABY ALONE

Then Bliss was asked if he had anything to say about May 3, 1940, and he studied his notebook diary thoughtfully and then he said:

"I saw my wife at a New Derby st. cafe. She was sitting in a booth with two men and another woman. I had seen her going in, so I followed her.

"They each had a glass of beer in front of them. My wife was just taking a sip when she saw me, and in a low voice I heard her say to her companions,

4 BOY JOINS NAVY ON COURT OK

Seventeen-year-old John Costello of Westland ave., Bay, is off to join the U. S. Navy, but only after a tempestuous hearing in Suffolk Probate Court today to overcome his father's objections.

In a lengthy hearing before Judge Frederick J. Dillon the father, Joseph Costello, a truck operator, vehemently protested that he was sick and needed the boy to help him with his business.

To this young Costello and a benefactress, Mrs. Louise Jenkins of Homingway st., Bay, retorted with the charge the father was an unfit person to have his custody.

Finally, however, Judge Dillon called a recess and Costello was prevailed upon to sign the papers which allowed his son, a minor, to join the Navy.

While Mrs. Jenkins was on the stand testifying that young Costello had repeatedly sought her protection in the past five years, when his father allegedly drove him out of the house, Costello shouted: "No. No, it's a lie."

Costello, a widower, who was married, was defended by his wife, who took the stand to testify the father was a good man who only reprimanded him when the boy deserved it.

While his wife was testifying, Costello repeatedly broke in to shout that what she said was untrue and that the boy was being out in insisting on leaving him the Navy.

After the father signed the papers the petition for a guardian was withdrawn. But Costello's unforgiving and left the shouting that he never wanted to see his son again.

Since he has already passed the Navy's physical and mental examinations, young Costello immediately left for training station at Newport, R. I.

FIREMEN RESCUE WOMAN, 70

A 70-year-old Somerville woman, whose broken leg is in a plaster cast, was rescued from her burning home today by two firemen who were off duty.

Lieut. James V. Gilcoy and Fireman John Duggan, both of Engine 2 of the Somerville fire department, first saw smoke pouring from the second-floor apartment of Mrs. Annie Reilly, the injured woman, in Holland st., Davis sq.

They rushed into the building, warning occupants of the real estate office of Manuel L. Brown, on the first floor, then carrying out Mrs. O'Reilly. They also led to safety Mrs. Sadie Penny, another occupant of the house.

As firemen battled the flames in the cold weather on icy ground, Chief John C. McNally ordered a second alarm turned in. Traffic was tied up in the square and hundreds of noon-time passersby stopped to watch.

Winds of near-gale force along the Atlantic seaboard from Portsmouth, N. H., to Block Island, R. I., were forecast by the weather bureau for late tonight or early tomorrow as storm warnings were ordered raised today.

Temperatures rising to normal for this season of the year and overcast skies were forecast for most of New England over the weekend. Lowest temperature in Boston tonight will be in the lower 20's.

Temperatures rising to normal

Snow and rain was forecast for northern New England. Ski conditions were described as "good."

As a precaution against another snowfall of several inches, 250 plows and scrapers were kept busy in Boston today. Twenty sanding machines likewise were in operation.

State public works department officials estimated that 800 men were called out to clear and sand trunk highways. Most of the main roads in Massachusetts were declared safe for auto travel today.

In a sealed verdict, opened today in superior court, Kempton Hain, brother of a Roxbury rest home operator, was found guilty of larceny of $818, the life savings of a patient, William J. Donohoe, 82, former Boston policeman.

The jury, at the same time, found Hain, his brother, Andrew, and the latter's attractive wife, Marjorie, not guilty of conspiracy to steal.

Kempton Hain was immediately sentenced to one year in jail on the larceny conviction by Chief Justice John P. Higgins.

Suffolk Court Gives Divorces to 2 Wives

Two wives were granted uncontested divorces in Suffolk probate court today, while a third, already divorced and since remarried, asked the court to force her first husband to make payments on a support order on which he is $3000 in arrears.

Judge Frederiek J. Dillon granted a divorce to Mrs. Olive Batchelder Crowell, of Concord, N. H., formerly of Wellesley, and gave her custody of two children, Jean Wilmas, 14, and Judith, 10, on her petition charging gross and confirmed habitual intoxication.

Mrs. Crowell testified that she married Milton J. Crowell in 1925 and that after divorcing him in Dedham in 1937 on the same grounds, remarried him on his promise to mend his ways.

LEFT HIM AGAIN

In 1938, she said, he started all over again and she was forced to leave him and go to her father's home in Wellesley.

A divorce was also granted to Mrs. Mary Reynolds, of Dwight st., South End, from Francis Reynolds whom she married in 1931. She charged cruel and abusive treatment and was awarded custody of a son.

Mrs. Reynolds told the court her husband struck her on several occasions. One time she said he disappeared for a month and when he finally came home it was with a young woman.

He informed her of his intention to marry the lady, Mrs. Reynolds testified, and told her to get out of the house. After she had shut the door in his face, he went away with the young lady, but returned alone and struck her.

$3000 IN ARREARS

Mrs. Martha E. Blumenthal appeared before Judge Dillon to ask that her first husband, Louis H. Romanow of Dorchester, be compelled to make payments of $35 weekly for the support of their daughter, Barbara Ann, whose custody she was awarded when the couple were divorced in 1934.

According to Mrs. Blumenthal, both she and her husband remarried after the divorce, and Romanow is now $3000 in arrears on his payments to her.

As proof of her former husband's ability to pay Mrs. Blumenthal produced a furniture salesman who testified Romanow's second wife had purchased $1800 worth of furniture from him and had already paid $100 of the bill.

The case is continuing.

Death of Woman Laid to Beating

A brutal beating, which left her bruised from head to foot and fractured three of her ribs, was a contributory cause of the death of Mrs. Irene Woods, 42, of Massachusetts ave., South End, Medical Examiner Timothy Leary announced today.

Police held for questioning a former boxer in whose room the woman's body was found. The body was unclad, but was covered with a blanket.

U. S. Building 330 Warships

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (INS)—The United States has 330 major combat ships under construction, the National Defense Council announced today.

Contracts totaling $3,500,000,000 for the ship construction program have been let, the council announced, and the balance of the $7,000,000,000 allotted for war vessels will be utilized for armor, armament and equipment.

Ships are coming off the ways at the rate of one every 12 days, according to the report and 162,000 workers are employed in the shipyards.

Construction time has been substantially reduced, the council said. Cruisers are being built on a schedule of 35 months instead of 40; submarines, 24 months instead of 30, and destroyers are three months ahead of schedule.

GOVERNOR'S VOTE LEAD IS NOW 5242

Gov. Saltonstall made a net gain of 128 votes in recounts in six communities today, bringing his total lead over Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever to 5242.

This margin was hailed by Saltonstall supporters as unquestionably safe, with more than 93 per cent of the retabulation completed.

The Saltonstall gain outside Boston was counter-balanced in some measure by 99 votes picked up by Dever in 13 Boston precincts.

Saltonstall's previous net gain of 161 in 120 Boston precincts was cut to 62 by today's returns, which brought the number of retabulated precincts here to 133.

CHELSEA VOTE SHIFT

The outside communities in which Saltonstall scored today included Chelsea, Hawley, Montague and North Attleboro.

The Ashley recount figures duplicated the original tabulation.

In Mansfield, Dever picked up three votes.

Saltonstall gained 121 in Chelsea, one in Hawley, one in Montague, eight in North Attleboro.

COURT FIGHT LOOMS

Dever's Boston gains included 100 votes in Precincts 5 and 12, Ward 11, Jamaica Plain.

With the chief executive gaining 82 votes in Pittsfield and 20 more in Orange, his supporters predict a final plurality of 4700 votes. The official tabulation originally gave Saltonstall a lead of 7450, which dropped to a low of 4972 Wednesday and has climbed back to a lead of 5242.

Possibility of ultimate court action was seen when William Burke, Jr., chairman of the Democratic state committee, announced that if the recount goes against Dever he will start action with the Supreme Judicial Court for a ruling on thousands of ballots protested by party followers throughout the State.

Von Mackensen, Nazi General, Is 91

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP)—Snowy-haired Field Marshal General August von Mackensen, Germany's oldest military figure, rounded his 91st year today.

The venerable soldier made his last public appearance May 29 of this year when he appeared at Potsdam in his crowded Hussar uniform and skullbones fur hat to check booted heels and lift his marshal's baton.

Citizens Made Serfs At Camp, Says Walsh

Condemning certain representatives of the Army at Fort Devens who are "treating citizens as serfs," U. S. Sen. David I. Walsh today was investigating employment conditions at the military camp.

At Camp Edwards meanwhile contractors feared a serious curtailment of construction work because carpenters are quitting the army's building project there in large numbers.

Another development was announcement that the 43d Division of National Guard troops from all New England states excepting Massachusetts will be called into active duty March 1, and sent to Camp Blanding, Jacksonville, Fla. — six weeks later than originally planned.

Sen. Walsh stated he had been greatly distressed by the complaints of citizens of Worcester, Pittsburg, Leominster, Clinton and other communities about the treatment accorded those seeking employment at Fort Devens.

REFUSES CHARGES

"Our private citizens who are paying in taxes the money that is building Fort Devens have been treated as serfs and not as citizens," the Senator declared. He has been informed, he said, that "indifference and hard-heartedness" has met many of those who sought to obtain information about employment.

The alleged abuse, he said, comes from "representatives of the United States Army who have charge of certain government employment."

No one complains about the inability to obtain employment at Fort Devens, he said, "but the complaints are most numerous about the treatment accorded those who visit the post."

ASKS FOR EVIDENCE

The senator called upon persons with evidence to write him.

"I would appreciate it if all the persons with complaints will write to me at my home in Clinton, letting me know in detail the number of visits they have had to make to Fort Devens before being received by anyone in authority, the hours they have had to wait, any information or lack of information extended, the conduct of any official to whom they have had the chance to present themselves, the treatment and resentment of letters of introduction from members of Congress, and any other information which will assist me in getting a true picture of the employment situation at Fort Devens."

"I want it understood that I am not unaware of the nervous tension attending the difficult job of being undertaken by the government at Devens, but I do insist that there is no excuse for our private citizens to be treated as intruders and their requests for information disregarded."

FEWER CARPENTERS

At Camp Edwards, the Walsh Co.'s latest call for 2000 more carpenters brought only 800 qualified men in several days of hiring and as a result contractors feared they may not be able to keep the Army's project on schedule.

With only 7000 carpenters on the current payroll as against 10,750 carpenters listed several weeks ago, an employment official saw a possible mass exodus of skilled labor.

"They're quitting as soon as they get their union memberships qualifying them to work elsewhere as union carpenters," he said.

SHOPPERS WARNED OF YULE FAKERS HAWKING WARES

There is no Santa Claus among the sidewalk hawkers and fly-by-night moochers preying on Christmas shoppers, the Boston Better Business Bureau warned today. The bureau warned shoppers that many of the goods already have been received from the makers who sell at proach "pedestrians and offer bargains in Christmas wares either in the form of perfumes, razors or other easily handled and attractive looking packages, or in the form of wholesale prices at some show-rooms. The sales tag usually used by the moocher, the bureau says, is that he has just bought a razor and lost his money and has to raise a little quick cash. Frequently a tag showing a $15 price is pasted on the razor and it's offered as low as $3, which it isn't worth. Per-fumes and other items are sim-ilarly peddled. The bureau cautions shoppers to be wary of such seeming bargains, pointing out that it has no record of any item being sold at wholesale prices.

RUMANIAN REBELS TO BE SHOT

MAROS VASARHELY, Hungary
Dec. 6 (AP)—Rumanian Premier
Gen. Ion Antonescu decreed a drumhead court martial today for Rumanians who "rebel against the army," with quick execution to follow conviction, according to reports reaching this border city.

The 250 taken as refugees streamed into the city from Ha-rumina with predictions that the army and the Iron Guard were approaching an open clash, was said to have been designed to strengthen the military in the event of such conflict.

FLAGS ON CARS FORBIDDEN

The decree, it was reported, provides that judgment should be handed down within 24 hours and sentence carried out within 10 hours after judgment, without provision for a appeal.

The government also was said to have forbidden the display of flags on automobiles, which would make it impossible for the Iron Guard thus to display its emblem.

The refugees pictured Rumania as a land of continuing anarchy.
Premier Antonescu, they said, apparently was unable to reconcile warring factions of the guard, which exacted bloody revenge last week for the slaying two years ago of their founder, Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, and had therefore determined to use the army in ruling the nation.

NAZIS BACK ANTONESCU

The refugees said there were heavy troop concentrations in strategic Rumanian cities. Bucharest dispatches reported the army had called a large number of reserves to the frontier.

Germany, it was understood here, was backing Antonescu and reports said the German army already stationed in Rumanian oil fields was to be swelled by four new divisions (about 60,000 men).

British Health Good Despite War's Rigors

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Britain's health is better now than any time during the World War—even better than in peacetime some cases—despite broken sleep and long hours in cold air raid shelters, health ministry officials said today.

So far there has been no evidence, it was said, to show grounds for the British Medical Journal's dark prophecy months ago that "unless measures are promptly taken... we can foresee this winter a state of affairs in respect to infectious diseases which may prove more devastating than the blitzkrieg."

Officials were optimistic that though the worst of the winter lies ahead they could maintain the record. "We should be further on by then," they said, referring to their precautionary measures.

Health ministry figures show that up to Oct. 15 there were only seven deaths in London from infantile paralysis—lower than the peacetime death rate—and only six from typhoid.

DIPHTHERIA DECREASE
There were 17,871 cases of diphtheria in all major towns up to Oct. 15 as compared with 17,785 in 1939; 614 cases of typhoid and paratyphoid against 1181 cases in 1939, and 30,295 cases of scarlet fever against 22,191 cases in 1939.

Cerebro spinal fever, which increases in wartime due to concentration of population, is "not a major problem" because of the excellent results of sulfanilamide treatment, the ministry declared.

Not a single case of typhoid resulting from bombed water mains has been reported, it continued, due to the vigilance of 30 public health laboratories.

There is a seasonal upturn in measles but infectious diseases which were expected to take a heavy toll in crowded shelters were forestalled by better sanitary facilities, by the creation of 125 medical shelterposts where a doctor and nurse are in constant attendance, and by placing 200 more doctors and 150 nurses on call at all times, the ministry asserted.

MOBILE UNITS CURB
Mobile units sent into areas which lack proper facilities are combating venereal diseases. The rate of increase in such diseases is less than it was last year, they added.

Bomb shock cases were said to be "surprisingly few." One shelter reported that out of 1100 cases received, only 15 had psychological disorders.

Cardinal to Urge Aliens to Register

Calling attention to the fact that many aliens have failed to register as required by federal law, a special message from Cardinal O'Connell will be read in Catholic churches throughout the diocese Sunday at all masses.

In his message, the Cardinal will warn delinquent aliens that they face severe penalties unless they register before Dec. 26, the final day for registration.

NAZIS HOLD AMERICAN WOMAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Washington Post in a copy-righted story said today that a woman clerk in the United States embassy at Paris has been arrested by German authorities on the charge of conniving to help British officers escape from occupied France.

The Post said that the State Department had queried the Paris embassy and had confirmed the report that the woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan, 40, of Asheville, N. C., is being detained by German police for questioning.

State Department officials were quoted by the Post as saying that appropriate action was being taken by the embassy "to protect the American woman's rights."

Mrs. Deegan, a resident of Paris for the past 12 years and an employee of the embassy for the past four years, was one of the few women employees who chose to remain at their posts when the Nazi army marched in, the Post said.

She was the granddaughter of Jeter Connelly Pritchard, Republican Senator from North Carolina from 1885 to 1903, and later a justice of the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

MURPHY IN DEFENSE POST

Upset in Italy Seen War's Turning Point

By J. C. OERICHER

International News Service Foreign Editor

What may well be the turningpoint in Europe's war so far as Italy is concerned—can today when Premier Mussolini dismissed his chief of staff, Field Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

There was no official explanation. But none was needed. For simultaneously with his discharge, the Greeks announced capture of Sant'Quaranta, the old Albanian seaport which Mussolini renamed Porto Italia in honor of his daughter. And his "Good Friday" conquest of Albania last year.

Badoglio's retirement is ample proof of the consternation which must prevail in Rome over the entirely unexpected denouement of Italy's campaign to subjugate Greece.

In democratic countries, changes in high command are ordinary affairs. Britain has shifted her generals many times since the war began, and it didn't mean anything in particular.

DISLIKED FASCISM

But in a totalitarian regime such shifts are quite another affair, and the dismissal of Badoglio clearly indicates that perhaps for the first time, the Nazi-Fascist timetable of conquest has slipped a cog.

Little or nothing is known of Badoglio's successor, Gen. Ugo Cavallero, who now takes command of all the Italian armed forces.

But much is known of Badoglio, an in view of his retirement one factor is of prime importance.

And this is his long-standing dislike of the Fascist doctrine.

There has been no stranger paradox than Badoglio's exercise of almost unrestricted military power despite his political opposition to Fascism. Mussolini simply felt he could not get along without him before. The fallow in Greece gave II Duce ample opportunity to disillusion him, but it seems certain that any such extreme measure must have been dictated by stark necessity.

LOYAL SOLDIER

Badoglio held a high command in the Italian army when Mussolini led his march on Rome and the general's deep fondness for what the Blackshirt revolution implied led him to seek out King Victor Emmanuel and ask him to sign a decree establishing a state of siege throughout Italy. The monarch refused, and II Duce rolled down to Rome in a Pullman car without opposition.

Badoglio proved loyal and a good soldier under Mussolini's regime. So much so, in fact, that he suc-

Berlin Sneers At Britain's 341-4 Anti-Peace Vote

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (INS)—German government officials pouted scorn today on the 341 to 4 vote in the British House of Commons against any move for peace with Germany.

German quarters branded the British parliamentary vote as "political trickery so artificial that anyone can see through it." Wilhelmstrasse quarters declared the British vote was a pre-arranged parliamentary maneuver aimed at "giving the semblance of a bold front" to counteract the effects of what Berlin calls the British "gloom campaign."

This "gloom campaign," according to the Germans, has proved a boomerang for the British.

ceasefully conquered Ethiopia for II Duce and was rewarded with the title of Duke of Addis Ababa.

But the Italian army under him had less enthusiasm for the war in Greece than it had against the natives in Equatorial Africa.

Bomb Blast Near King's Brother

LONDON, Dec. 6 (INS)—The Duke of Gloucester, who served as a liaison officer with the British expeditionary force in France, narrowly escaped with his life recently when bombs fell nearby. British authorities said today.

King George VI has braved all the perils of Nazi aerial attacks in visits to various bombed areas of England, it was revealed.

The Monarch, accompanied by Minister of Supply Herbert Morrison visited damaged sections of Southampton and Portsmouth. At Southampton he coolly carried on a conversation less than 100 yards from an unexploded time bomb and ignored a German observation plane overhead. At Portsmouth he was caught in an air raid.

U. S. AID TO BRITISH VIA ARGENTINA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (INS)—British and Argentine financial experts conferred with Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau today after the United States made a $100,000,000 loan to the South American nation with the distinct understanding that Argentina advance England $100,000,000 in credits to buy badly needed foodstuffs.

Morgenthau conferred with British Undersecretary of the Treasury, Sir Frederick Phillips, for one hour and 13 minutes. Phillips flew to Washington from England for the conference to give the U. S. Treasury what he said was a complete "balance sheet" of British resources and war needs.

Also conferring with Morgenthau were the Argentine ambassador, Felipe Esplá, and Paul Prebisch, manager of the Argentine Central Bank. Prebisch, who arranged for the $100,000,000 loan to his country, was asked whether Argentina would advance the $100,000,000 in credits to England.

"If negotiations for the English credits have not already been concluded, they will be in a few days," he replied.

CONFERENCE AGAIN MONDAY
Phillips, after the meeting, announced that he would confer with Morgenthau again Monday, meanwhile conferring with English diplomatic officials and members of the British Purchasing Commission in Washington.

"We did not discuss any questions of policy today," Phillips insisted. "We discussed nothing but facts. The main question of giving him a balance sheet."

"The balance sheet will show the state of our resources, and the cost of war supplies we need. We haven't really started yet."

He said he could not estimate how long British resources would last.

He declared that neither British World War debts to this country nor the possibility of selling British western hemisphere possessions to the United States was discussed.

The Argentine had the full approval of President Roosevelt before he left on his national defense tour in the Caribbean, it was revealed. Mr. Roosevelt, it was added, also was aware of the negotiations between Argentina and Britain for credits for England.

President Roosevelt's action in improving the Argentine loan while the purchase of war material was in line with the present administration policy against granting direct loans or amending the Johnson or neutrality acts to permit such loans.

DIRTIES USE OF GOLD
The administration is against granting direct loans to England for the purchase of war material as the U. S. as long as the British are not using their billions of dollars of investments in the western Hemisphere, it was explained.

The neutrality and Johnson acts are not involved in the Argentine deal, as Argentina is not in default on any debts to this nation. Britain, however, is in default on its old $5,000,000,000 debt from the first World War.

Parkman Gets Job Aiding Defense Work

Henry Parkman, Jr., who was defeated in his effort to unseat U. S. Sen. David I. Walsh in the November election, is going to work in Washington after all.

The former Boston corporation counsel has received an appointment to the legal staff of A. A. S. Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson. He will be assigned to financial plant expansion agreements between the government and industries handling defense contracts.

Duce Ousts War Chief Badoglio

called upon to vanquish Ethiopia for Fascist Italy when the Italian campaign bogged down, did not join the Fascist party until he had sealed his triumph over Haile Selassie's empire.

Chief of staff when the black-shirts marched on Rome, Badoglio was reported to have assured King Vittorio Emanuele that he could, if ordered, disperse them with a single regiment.

But the King decided to invite Mussolini to form a government and Badoglio offered no opposition to the new regime.

POPULAR WITH ARMY

Soon after Mussolini achieved power he sent Badoglio to Brazil as ambassador, Badoglio receiving the diplomatic appointment, it was believed at the time, because he was too useful, too strong with the army and too popular with the people to dismiss altogether.

His position as Italy's foremost military strategist was so strong, however, that Mussolini called him back to direct reorganization of the Italian war machine in 1928.

Badoglio first marched to battle as an artillery lieutenant against Ethiopia in 1896 and against Turkey in 1911-12.

Entering the World War against Austria as a lieutenant-colonel, he later advanced to the rank of army corps commander.

He plunged into his fourth war when he was appointed governor of Libya in 1929, with the mission of reconquering the former Turkish province from the rebellious natives.

GIVEN DUKE TITLE

Badoglio remained in the background at the start of the Ethiopian campaign in 1936, but when Marshal Emilio De Bono's campaign slackened Mussolini sent Badoglio into command.

He gained victory over the Ethiopians and was rewarded with the title of Duke of Addis Ababa and named viceroy of Ethiopia. He was showered with honors upon his return to Rome.

In the Ethiopian campaign he settled an account that had rankled in his memory since 1896 when, as a young officer of 25, he witnessed the Italian army's humiliating defeat at Aduwa.

Badoglio was born in Piedmont Province on Sept. 28, 1871, the son of a farmer. He was attracted to military life and attended the military academy at Turin, Italy's West Point.

He is married and the father of one child, a daughter.

London Sees Badoglio Sacked as Scapegoat

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP)—London military circles today said that the resignation of Marshal Pietro Badoglio as Italian chief of staff had deprived Italy of one of its most experienced commanders and "one who apparently was not in sympathy with the military policy now being pursued by the Fascist government."

Some military sources expressed the opinion that Badoglio had been "sacked" as a scapegoat for Italian military reverses or "because he is opposed to the attitude of the party organization and the strictures of the army."

Nazis Decline Comment On Ouster of Badoglio

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP)—Informed German quarters declined comment today on the resignation of the Italian chief of staff, Marshal Pietro Badoglio, except to say that Badoglio's successor, Gen. Ugo Cavallero, is a great organizer.

GERMAN RAIDER IN BATTLE

lantic with a German auxiliary cruiser.—Editor's note.

The admiralty admitted "some casualties" aboard the Carnarvon Castle.

The admiralty's communiqué said:

"The armed merchant cruiser H. M. S. Carnarvon Castle (Capt.
H. N. M. Harty, R. N. V. R.), was in action yesterday with a fast and heavily armed German raider disguised as a merchant ship in the South Atlantic.

"Full details are not yet available but from available reports it is clear that the action was fought at a long range, the enemy raider which was a ship of considerable speed not accepting closer action.

"There was heavy firing on both sides during the engagement and a considerable amount of ammunition was expended as H.M.S. Carnarvon Castle gave chase to the enemy.

"H.M.S. Carnarvon Castle received slight damage and there were some casualties. The next of kin will be informed as soon as possible. It is not yet known what damage was inflicted on the enemy raider and she was last reported to be steaming north at high speed away from the scene of action."

2 SHIPS SUNK, NAZIS SAY

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP)—The high command reported today that a German auxiliary vessel had severely damaged a British ship of the same class in a battle in the South Atlantic and credited a Nazi submarine with sinking four British merchantmen totaling 13,300 tons.
Two of the merchantmen were sunk in convoy, a communiqué said.
The date of the raider's engagement with the British ship was not given.

Carnarvon Sailed From Brazil Port

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 6 (AP)—
The British ship, Carnarvon Castle, 20,122 tons, sailed from Vi-toria, Brazil, only five days after naval circles here said that "without a doubt" she headed north or south rather than eastward across the Atlantic. She had a cruising speed of 15 knots.

The Carnarvon Castle halted the Brazilian coastal steamer Itape, 18 miles off shore on Nov. 30 and removed 22 persons the British said.
The ship was damaged and the Acentara, 22,309 tons, which was damaged in a battle with a German raider off the Brazilian coast
July 20.

Other British merchant cruisers known to be in South Atlantic waters recently were the 22,750-ton Queen of Bermuda and the Acen-
tara, 22,309 tons, which was damaged in a battle with a German raider off the Brazilian coast
July 20.

Reds, Slovak's Sign Trade Pact

MOSCOW, Dec. 6 (AP)—Soviet Russia signed a trade treaty today with Slovakia, German-protected state which was carved out of the dismembered Czechoslovak republic.

The signing ceremony took place at the foreign trade commissariat following upon two weeks of negotiations.

The Slovaks agreed to export electrical equipment, copper cable and artificial silk in exchange for Russian raw cotton and chemicals.
Today's was the latest in a series of commercial agreements
Russia has concluded with small countries of Central Europe.

10 Children Win as Nazi Leaders Wed

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP)—The marriage of Germany's women's leader, Gertrude Scholtz-Klink, and August Heismeyer, high leader of the SS (Elite Guard) Corps, was announced today.

A unique announcement in Adolf Hitler's Volksischer Beobachter said:

"We are marrying Dec. 6, thus giving our 10 children a joint home."

She is 33, he is 33.

She has four children and he has six, by previous marriages.

News Shock to Woman Nazi's Ex-Kin in U. S.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 6 (AP)—Dr. Otto J. Klink, evangelist and former brother-in-law of Mrs. Gertrude Scholtz-Klink, whose marriage to August Heismeyer, high leader of the SS (Elite Guard) Corps, was announced in Berlin, said today the news "is quite a shock."

Klink, an American citizen since 1933, said he doesn't know "whether my brother even is alive," as he has had no news from Germany since the war began.

He added he "had no idea" that Mrs. Scholtz-Klink and his brother, Rudolf, "who, as far as I know, heads the Reich insurance development, were even separated."

Morgan's TVA Ouster Upheld

CINCINNATI, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Sixth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld dismissal of Arthur F. Morgan as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Affirming lower court dismissal of Morgan's suit, in which he sought recovery of $153,333 alleged due in salary, Judge C. C. Simons of Detroit cited a Supreme Court case which said:

"The power to remove executive officers appointed by President is conferred upon him by the Constitution and no may not be abrogated by statute."

Morgan, president of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, O., was removed by President Roosevelt on March 23, 1938, for "contumacy." Previously, the tall, gray-haired educator had been at odds with fellow-members of the TVA board.

Vatican Vetoes Mercy Killings

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 6 (AP)—Mercy killings as a government practice for racial or economic reasons have been condemned by the sacred congregation of the holy office.

A Latin statement issued by the holy office said it "is not permissible to kill by mandate of public authorities those who, while not having committed any crime meriting death, nevertheless because of mental or physical deficiency no longer are useful to the nation but are rather a public charge."

Such acts, it said, are contrary to natural and Divine law.

Whether euthanasia, or mercy killings, is right, has been debated in some countries and the congregation said its statement was issued in reply to a request for a ruling.

TYPHOON NEAR MANILA

Details of Red Plot To Seize U. S. Bared

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Proving subversive elements in New York's public educational system, the Coudert-Rapp legislative committee today issued an analysis of the Communist Party's plans to overthrow the United States government by force and set up a Marxist-Lenin dictatorship.

Involved, said the committee, were Lenin agents who covered every walk of American life as well as the schools.

The committee's report was withheld from publication but it was entered as exhibit No. 1 for the first public hearing starting Monday. It is said to be based largely on the writings and statements of Communists themselves.

The committee, which already has heard charges that at least 11 members of the Brooklyn College faculty are Communists, intends to fill out the generalizations in this so-called white paper with examples furnished by witnesses, it was understood.

The committee also has heard charges that members of the Teachers Union are members of the International Workers Order, world revolutionary organization; that the American Student Union has been dominated and financed by Reds.

The Communist Party of the U. S. is charged with its connection with the Communist International last month, but the proceedings were a fraud, the committee charges in its resume.

The International, with headquarters in Moscow, till guides the American branch, and according to the resume, statements by Earl Browder since the supposed dissolution and the entire "international history" of the party prove the fraud.

Quoting from L. N. Stalin and articles in Communist magazines, the resume charges that the Lenin-Marx-Stalin party has established the proletariat as its sole objective.

Using such groups as the Young Communists League, the party seeks to undermine American youth by spreading its subversive principles among them," according to the resume which said further:

"One Communist tactic consists of fostering discontent. This is done through strategically located members who, accepting secrecy and subtlety, work on potential class controversies and personal grievances."

FRENCH FREE 2 AMERICANS

VICHY, France, Dec. 6 (AP)—Varian Fry, of the American Aid Center, and a member of his staff, who had been held by police at Marseilles since Dec. 3, were released today. The charges against them were not announced.

Air Stewardess Dies; Toll Now 9

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (INS)—Miss Florence Little, 22-year-old stewardess of the United Air Lines transport plane which crashed near the Chicago Airport Wednesday evening, died today at Holy Cross Hospital.

Death of the young air hostess raised to nine the number of persons injured fatally in the accident, cause of which remained undetermined.

Miss Little suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries, and had hovered near death for many hours. She failed to rally despite three blood transfusions.

In addition to Miss Little, those killed when the giant airliner fell within sight of the airport were the pilot, co-pilot, and six passengers. Seven passengers remained under treatment at Holy Cross hospital today.

Deer, Hit by Bus, Suddenly Comes To Life, Is Freed

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Bus Driver Thomas Heller thought he had a deer—but he didn't.

His bus struck a deer, so with the aid of passengers, he loaded the "carcass" into the baggage compartment and drove to town. But when the compartment was opened, the deer leaped out, very much alive.

So Heller loaded up, drove back to the accident spot, and released it.

28 Suing Hubby Tells Of Trysts by Wife

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1940

"That one there is my husband," it was around 11 p. m.

"I then went out and had a talk with Officer John Tully and with him I went to my wife's home. I found the door unlocked and a lamp burning and found my baby alone—nobody there to take care of him. My wife came home around 11:45."

REASONS FROM DIARY

Now the attention of Bliss was directed to July 17, 1940, and once more he studied the diary. Then he said:

"I saw two men and a girl go into my wife's home and saw them in the front room. I hung around the house and watched them and then I went to the police station and made a complaint."

"I didn't return with the officers, but at 2:30 a. m. I drove my car to Peabody st. and five doors down from my wife's house I parked my car and waited."

"I saw a car come down the street and park in front of my wife's house. My wife came out and got into the car and sat in the front seat next to the driver."

TELS OF KISSING

"Another car came along and from the lights of this car's headlights I saw my wife sitting very close to this man. I got out of my car and pretended to be drunk and staggered up to the car. When I got close to it I straightened up and looked in and saw my wife hugging and kissing this man."

"I said to him, 'This is my wife.' The man said, 'Oh, I didn't know she was married.' I said, 'You must be awfully blind. She's got a wedding ring that's shining up in your eyes.' He said, 'Well, I must be going.' I said, 'Would you care to give me your name?' He said, 'No.' My wife said, 'What are you doing? Following me around?' So I took the registration of the car and later checked it at the police station."

NAMES HELD SECRET

This man, however, must ever remain in anonymity, as Judge John A. Costello declined to let Bliss give the name.

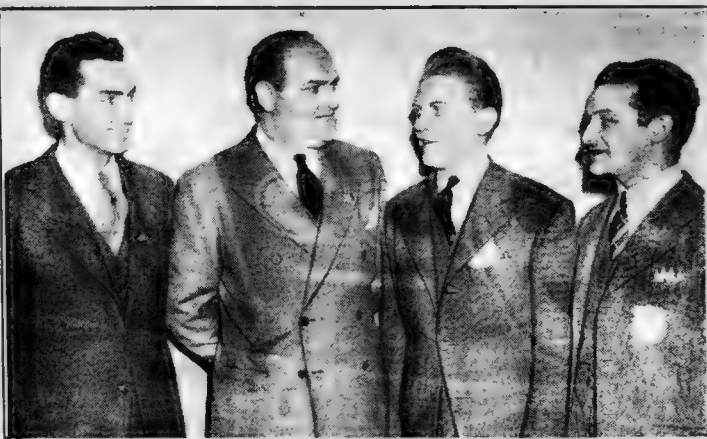

The hearing that is inherently Peabody st. came out again in the early hours of July 24, it was evident from the husband's continued testimony.

Between 12:30 and 1 a. m. he said, he was back watching Betty's home the next day and he went through the backyard.

"I saw my wife," he said, "taking a walk through the back way and they sat on the back steps. I was on the wall, looking down. I had a flashlight in my hand. I saw her hugging and kissing the man, named Joe. He's a married man and I had seen my wife meet him at La Fayette st. and walk down with him."

If you might be inclined to think there was something upon the wall, Bliss was discovered upon the wall, you would be far, far wrong, but excusably wrong, perhaps, through not knowing your Peabody st.

"When the two of them saw me on the wall," Maurice recalled, "they invited me to come down." No startled cries! No noise! No oaths, say! Not in Peabody st.—not even in the backyard.

"My wife said, 'Joe, you know my husband,'" recalled Maurice. "He said, 'Yes,' and I said, 'Joe, you're a married man; I know your wife.'"

"He said, 'We aren't doing anything,' and I said, 'What do you call kissing and hugging—isn't that something?'"

"He said, 'You couldn't see us,' I said, 'I had my flashlight on you.' My wife called me a rat." Judge Costello suggested that at this point they might well have a recess.

M. D. Doubts Fall Killed R. I. Wife

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 6 (INS)—

"A smooth object such as a head, knee or shoulder" could have inflicted the injuries which caused the death of Mrs. Muriel Blood, 26, Medical Examiner Thad A. Krolicki testified today at the trial of the woman's husband, Richard E. Blood, charged with her murder. Superior Court Judge G. Fredrick Frost allowed the testimony despite vigorous objection of defense counsel.

Dr. Krolicki said the black and blue areas of Mrs. Blood's body, the fractured ribs and liver and kidney injuries could not have been suffered in a fall of 20 feet or more, declaring such a fall would have caused broken bones and more bruised tissue.

Blood claims his wife was killed when she fell from a third-story window of her home.

FATHER WINS SON'S CUSTODY IN CALL-OF-BLOOD CASE

30 ATLANTA, Dec. 6 (AP)—Holding that the "law trusts to blood," the Georgia Supreme Court today returned to his natural father a 10-year-old boy whose step-father had cared for him since he was 18 months old.

James E. Cummings, 40, of Atlanta, had been asked to relinquish the boy. The court pointed out no good reason had been shown as to the character or fitness of the father or of the step-father to bring up the child, adding that in such circumstances the law "trusts to blood." Chapin and his wife were divorced in February, 1931, and custody of the child awarded the mother. The father made a "substantial" monthly settlement and agreed to provide $200 monthly for the boy's support. The court stated Mrs. Chapin was married to Cummings in March, 1931. She died in August, 1933. Chapin immediately tried to regain custody of his son. Cummings resisted the action, claiming he and his wife had a son and that young Chapin "had been brought up along with the other boys in their home in the belief that he was the son of Mr. Cummings."

32 Six Western States Fight Spread of Flu

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1940

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6 (INS)—No respecter of persons, California's mild but widespread influenza epidemic today continued to range from football fields to class rooms, and from Army barracks to prison cells.

Indications the invidious flu bug's spreading eastward and northward brought precautionary measures in Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Nevada and Utah.

At Palo Alto sick members of Stanford University's Rose Bowl bound football team were sent to a convalescent home to recover from the attacks. Among the new victims were Norman Standie, full-back and his substitute, Milt Vick-nich.

San Jose State College, Santa Clara University, St. Mary's and the University of California reported infirmaries filled to capacity with students.

Fort Ord and the Monterey Piesidio, where thousands of troops and trainees are billeted, reported a number of cases. In the training camp at Fort Lewis a complication of flu and measles harassed authorities, with approximately 2600 men in sick lay.

At San Quentin prison more than 300 convicts were under treatment.

No San Francisco schools were closed, but absences mounted to more than 11,000 children of all grades, compared with 9600 yesterday.

SPAIN RULES FUEL SALES

MADRID, Dec. 6 (AP)—The Spanish government today placed sales of gasoline and all other liquid fuels under control of a special board to insure maximum coordination and production because of difficulties in importation.

EVERYONE who has read the startling report on the commission's findings and conclusions, which has been published in this paper, will be struck by the decision of a very important in the commission's findings are accurate, why are responsible officials permitted to flout the law year after year with apparent immunity from exposure and punishment?

If eight hundred parolees have violated the stipulations of their releases, why are they still free and not back in prison? What, actually, is the purpose of the parole system?

It is the purpose of the parole system to give the prisoner a chance to prove himself a law-abiding citizen. If he fails, he goes back to prison. If he succeeds, he is free.

What has happened? The parole system has become a joke. It is a system of rewards and punishments which is completely unworkable. It is a system which is based on the assumption that a man who has been in prison for a long time will be a better man when he is released.

The parole system is a failure. It is a system which is based on the assumption that a man who has been in prison for a long time will be a better man when he is released. It is a system which is based on the assumption that a man who has been in prison for a long time will be a better man when he is released.

FOR THIS REASON the legislature has passed a law which will give the parole board the power to revoke the parole of any parolee who has violated the stipulations of his release.

The legislature has passed a law which will give the parole board the power to revoke the parole of any parolee who has violated the stipulations of his release. This is a law which is long overdue.

The legislature has passed a law which will give the parole board the power to revoke the parole of any parolee who has violated the stipulations of his release. This is a law which is long overdue.

Why, then, can anyone give that law? The law is a law which is long overdue. It is a law which is long overdue.

Why, then, can anyone give that law? The law is a law which is long overdue. It is a law which is long overdue.

Why, then, can anyone give that law? The law is a law which is long overdue. It is a law which is long overdue.

THE SOLUTION is to give the parole board the power to revoke the parole of any parolee who has violated the stipulations of his release.

Why not take care with the whole parole system at once? Why not take care with the whole parole system at once? Why not take care with the whole parole system at once?

FEW WILL DENY that the peculiarities of the parole system have created an embarrassing situation.

WHAT DOCTOR brought you into the world? Is he still living? Ever see him? Hops you don't hold any grudge against him. Never met the mother who entered me into this vale of weeps and tears. By my head certificate I see his name was James H. Murphy. On some certificate I see my father was 10 years old and my mother 12 when I was born. I was the 5th child.

WHY IS IT that every day I see a crowd of people who are so different from me? I am a girl, and they are boys. I am a girl, and they are boys. I am a girl, and they are boys.

Afterwards we went to a reception for the members of the Home Club, who sponsored the lecture. This club is one of the best women's clubs in the country, and I was particularly interested to have several people speak to me of my old friend, Mrs. Lucy Pennhacker.

OLD ENEMY HISSES
G-MAN HOOVER

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—A few weeks ago J. Edgar Hoover went to Alcatraz and accompanied the warden in a tour of the prison . . . They walked past the rows of cells and then through the courtyard, where some of the prisoners were exercising . . . One of them hissed. Hoover turned and recognized him. He was an old acquaintance—"Machine Gun" Kelly, the criminal who introduced the description "G-Man."

FAME: Last week-end Oscar Levant met Marc Connelly and Paul Robeson in a train bound for Chicago. They went to the dining car, seated themselves at a table and ordered their dinner . . . After the meal had been served one of the Pullman waiters approached their table, presented a piece of paper to Robeson and asked for his autograph . . . The singer obliged, and the pleased waiter left—without requesting autographs of Levant or of Connelly . . . Robeson smiled and told his companions: "No offense—it's just racial solidarity."

DISAPPOINTMENT: The first N. Y. volunteer for Army service after registration, but before the order numbers were drawn, was a Manhattan cab driver named Hyman Better. He was so certain that he would be accepted that he sold his cab, moved from his apartment and completed all arrangements for a year's service . . . Better also was the first to be rejected, because of his poor eyesight . . . He was interviewed Tuesday in preparation for his appearance on the "Song of Your Life" program, and confessed his disappointment at being rejected. "I could've made a great tank driver," said Better. "If I asked a general: 'Where to, Buddy?' and he said: 'Berlin, I'd have no trouble taking him there' . . . 'What makes you so sure you could do that?' the hunkle was asked . . . 'Listen,' he assured. 'Any hunkle who could get through Times Square traffic during the theater hour rush wouldn't have any trouble getting any place.'"

SONG: Because of the ASCAP-EMI dispute, Kate Smith was refused permission by the broadcasting stations to sing "God Bless America." She had announced that she would sing that song in honor of the 4-H Club, meeting at the Medinah Club in Chicago. Kate knew that the club members would be disappointed. And so as soon as her broadcast was completed she rushed to a telephone and, over the long distance phone to Chicago, into a loud speaker system set up near the receiver at the banquet hall, Miss Smith sang her song, "God Bless America."

CRIME: A member of the Broadway Squad told a group of listeners that, despite the vigilance of the Police Dept., many perfect crimes have been committed in this city. "I never heard of any," one disbeliever insisted . . . "Neither did I," replied the detective. "And that's what makes 'em perfect.'"

AGE: During the early rehearsals of "Delicate Story," the new Molnar play, the author watched a young actor perform and shook his head . . . "What's the matter with him?" Gilbert Miller asked . . . "There's a mixup of ages," Molnar replied . . . "I don't think so," said Miller. "He's 26 and the part he takes is that of a young man of 19." "Yes," said Molnar, "but he acts like 12."

EXPENSE: Two days before Desi Arnaz eloped with Lucille Ball the proprietors of The Hurricane negotiated for his services at that cafe. "How much do you want?" they asked him . . . "Either $750 a week or $1200—depending," Desi replied . . . "Depending on what?" he was asked . . . "Depending," Desi explained, "on whether I'll have a wife to support at the time."

GREETING: Ernest Truex and Billy Rose, each slightly over five feet tall, were in a restaurant where they learned that the six-foot seven Robert E. Sherwood was expected . . . "He's meeting a group of important people from Washington," they were told . . . "Is that so?" said Truex, impressed. "What do we have to do just to shake his hand?" . . . "What we'd have to do," suggested Rose, "is get a step ladder."

KATE SMITH

BOSTON After DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

THE FATE OF MAXIE BAER hinged today on the result of a group huddle between assorted personalities, including authors, producers, directors, visiting mysterious strangers—including George Jessel—and innocent bystanders . . . Maxie's fate as a prize-fighter is not what we are talking about . . . He is doomed to another fight with Joe Louis, currently holding as he does a rating by Mike Jacobs and the N. Y. Boxing Commission as Challenger No. 1, or Foremost Contender . . . That should end him as a box-fighter.

MAXIE AS AN ACTOR is what we, however, are talking about . . . It seems that debate has been lively since "Hi-Ya Gentlemen" opened here Tuesday night as to whether The Baer should be replaced by an experienced stage clown—Jack Haley, for instance . . . At tea-time yesterday, Maxie was slated to be axed . . . But the pro-Baer group has become quite agitated, and the supper-time verdict was to the effect that Max would probably continue to amble about the stage in all his enchanting disingenuousness. (Nothing definite.)

HAVING NOT BEEN ASKED for an opinion, this corner refrains from joining the debate as positively as it might . . . It is prepared to predict only that "Hi-Ya Gentlemen" will lose its most attractive male personality if Mugging Max is given the pink-slip . . . Baer, in New York, will be box-office . . . He will inspire two violently opposed schools of thought—both probably agreeing that he is not a real actor—and the "word-of-mouth" so generated will bring patronage to the theater.

MR. JESSEL, THE RECENT BRIDEGROOM whose marriage to Lois Andrews did more for his fellow-comedians than Henry Ford's one time practice of creatives or "tin-lizzies," arrived quite unexpectedly in Boston . . . Preceding him by several hours, incidentally, was an even greater figure of the living theater, the great Jed Harris, producer of "Our Town," and other hits.

AND ACCOMPANYING MR. HARRIS on his unheralded descent upon our town was another great man, one Boris Morros, first musical director of the Metropolitan Theater and now a producer for the movies . . . Boris and Mr. Harris are friends . . . Jed came along to introduce Boris, who has just produced "Second Chorus," to the press . . . But observers who caught Mr. Harris in conference with the young authors—and it was no trick at all—feel that personal business somewhat motivated Mr. Harris toward Boston-town . . . The young authors were Fred Finklehoffe and John Monks, "Hi-Ya Gentlemen" librettists.

BUT BACK TO MR. JESSEL . . . George saw "Hi-Ya Gentlemen" and strongly advised against erasing Mr. Baer . . . Before coming here, George had declined an offer by a N. Y. theatrical magnate to take a starring role in "All in Fun," which, apparently, is slightly under the influence of the New York magazine in spite of the advertising which gives Leonard Sillman sole producing authority over the revue's motley destinies.

BEING A SENTIMENTAL SOUL and loyal indeed, George stopped at the Latin Quarter to applaud young Harry Spear, confederer of the goings-on at that gay spot . . . George acquired a rooting interest in Mr. Spear when he tabbed him as a corner way back in the Bull Market days when Harry was a prodigy with a flash-act . . . From the Latin Quarter, Messrs. Jessel, Spear, Baer, Ancil Hoffman and others walked to the Coconut Grove to take part in the weekly celebrity night—quite a gathering at the Grove.

bur Theater beginning Dec. 30, and her play is named "Battle of Angels" . . . Because of Miss Hopkins' impending occupancy of the Wilbur, Walt Disney's fourth-coming "Fantasia" will probably be road-showed at the Majestic—and soon . . . But Disney manager's preference was the Wilbur.

WANT GEORGE BRENT FOR 'SKYLARK'

By Louella O. Parsons

George Brent

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—If Warners will play Santa Claus—Paramount wants George Brent for "Skylark"—or to be exact, they want him for the third starring role with Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland in "Skylark." The deal to borrow George has been on the fire a week—and it was a mistaken report that they wanted him for "One Night in Lisbon," with Madeline Carroll. Fred MacMurray is set for that.

Speaking of George—he was noticeably absent from the cocktail party Ann Sheridan gave for the press yesterday, lending credence to the rumors that these two are cooling. In spite of her contract troubles with Warners, Annie, they tell me, was a gracious hostess and showed no signs of worry. She was her old self with plenty of oomph in bright red hostess pajamas. Among the guests were Ann Sothern and Roger Pryor, Pat and Eloise O'Brien, Frank McHugh, Jane Wyman and most of the boys and girls from the newspapers.

HARTZELL SPENCE'S personal suggestion for the right actor to play his "practical parson" father in "One Foot in Heaven," is Raymond Massey. He wrote Jack Warner a most interesting letter about Massey, a copy of which has been forwarded to me. Mr. Spence says: "Last Sunday, quite by accident, I was entertained at the home of Raymond Massey and Ray and I got talking about 'One Foot in Heaven.' Much to my surprise I find that not only is Massey a consummate actor, which I knew, but he is the nephew of a Methodist bishop." He goes on to say:

BRENDA MARSHALL "Amazingly enough, he is father's height, he has father's hands, and he wore clothes as father did—and while he is not quite as handsome as father, that is a minor item."

TWO OF HOLLYWOOD'S best known old timers are getting a break—which is always good news. Harry Langdon will be starred in a series of feature length comedies, and his femme lead in the first is Betty Blythe. It's titled "Misbehaving Husbands" and the company is Producers Releasing Corporation, which I understand, is being backed by Pathe. Harry hasn't had a lot of luck in recent years. Maybe this is the turning point.

NEVER HEARD such raves as I've received by wire and telephone about "The Philadelphia Story." Katharine Hepburn's comeback picture is the talk of Hollywood. Privately La Hepburn must be having a great laugh—for the stage producers had to practically force MGM to take her along with the movie rights. Originally, I think the studio wanted "The Philadelphia Story" for Norma Shearer because Hepburn was supposed to be "poison" at the box office."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD AND PITTSBURGH: The afternoon press preview of "The Philadelphia Story" was as gala as a first night. Judy Garland came with Mickey Rooney—and while Judy is always very grown up on her dates with Dave Rose she and Mickey behave like kids. They ate candy all through the show and Judy wore a bow on her hair; Janet Gaynor, an inveterate previewer, came with Adrian; Margaret Lindsay was doing raves over K. Hepburn.

THE JANE WYMAN-RONALD REAGAN heir is expected New Year's Day: Pittsburgh has been very gay for us with parties galore. The Sun Telegraph gave us a wonderful tea at the William Penn. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bettner, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Daniels and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart List were our hosts; I had tea with Judge Morgan, a school friend of mine and the famous woman judge from Sewickley. She brought a friend whose little daughter is at Warm Springs and every letter the child writes she speaks of Sabu's visit there and how much happiness he brought to the youngsters at the home where crippled children can forget they are not like other little ones.

THE NOTRE DAME rosters on the coast are having a smoker Friday night after the Examiner Christmas benefit. Frank Fay will be master of ceremonies and among the honorary alumni attending, after their stint at the show, are Don Ameche, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Pat O'Brien; Olivia De Havilland and Jimmy Stewart weren't able to respark their romance. It's definitely over.

Remorse Plea Wins Mercy for Scalper

Granted mercy after she sobbed out her remorse, Mrs. Myrtle DeGrotto, 36, of Revere st., West End, who literally scalped a young waitress, today was under a suspended sentence of three months in jail. Found guilty last Tuesday of assault and battery upon Miss Eileen Boyd, 28, pretty blonde waitress, Mrs. DeGrotto faced her victim in municipal court and pleaded for mercy which Judge Frank W. Tomassillo granted.

In Robbery Attempt

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 6 (INS)—Murdered by a hatchet-wielder apparently searching for rumored wealth, Mrs. Anna Halder, 76, eccentric Salt Lake City widow, was found dead on the dirt floor of the basement of her modest bungalow.

SCHOOLS SPEED YULE SHIP

nouncements thus far, also came in the statement by Mrs. Vincent L. Greene, president of the League of Catholic Women, that her organization was now actively working for A CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR ENGLAND.

Members of the League of Catholic Women represent more than 800,000 women in the archdiocese of Boston.

The campaign for clothing and footwear to aid the bombed civilians of Britain was characterized by Mrs. Greene as "a grand undertaking," and she said the appeal would be carried into every meeting of League chapters during the next few days.

The first collection of donations for the Christmas Ship was ready at the League House in Arlington st., Back Bay, this afternoon. More collections will be made from day to day.

Meanwhile, packages of all sorts continued to pour into Christmas Ship headquarters at 100 and 72 Summer st.

The appeal for blankets for those who have been driven from their homes by Nazi bombs was especially meeting with generous response. From the Better Homes Ass'n of Cambridge, of which William Doty is president, came 100 woolen blankets of excellent quality. From Brattle Sons Co. of Cambridge came 10 brand new blankets.

And more blankets are coming from hotels, not only in Boston, but throughout the State.

The Boston Hotel Men's Ass'n, of which Arthur Race of the Copley Plaza is president, decided to extend 100 per cent co-operation to the Christmas Ship campaign for blankets.

Further, Lee Whitney, of Hotel Kenmore, chairman of the hotel committee, sent letters to all hotel owners and managers in Massachusetts asking donations for the cause.

In the joy of giving for the Christmas Ship, there are little notes of tragedy, however, every day.

One Waltham woman who called at the Summer st. headquarters was on her way to a hospital, faced with a possible serious eye operation. She has a brother and a sister in London now.

"I brought in some men's underwear and some warm boys' and men's sweaters," she explained. "I thought I'd better do it now, in case I have to stay at the hospital."

SOX DELIVERED

She was Mrs. John T. W. Thompson of 35 Dartmouth st., Waltham, and everyone in the Christmas Ship offices hoped she would fare the best.

A package that will gladden many a heart came in from Kennedy's with the explanation that Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Miller of 507 Dudley st., Roxbury, had ordered four dozen of the best woolen socks be delivered for the Christmas Ship.

Three cases of new shoes were also received from Isaac Cohen & Co. of Boston and large parcels of fine woolen garments were received from Mrs. Harry Wilson of Forest st., Cambridge, and Jane E. Stanton of Mattapoisett, Mass.

To add to the "special cases" of new baby things which started with Case No. 113, Miss Violet Chaik of Emmeline st., Woburn, sent in a beautiful collection of freshly purchased infant's garments—a joy to the women volunteers who sorted and packed them.

More cleaners and dyers are helping out every day, too. Latest deliveries came from Dave Goodman Co. of 335 Massachusetts ave., Roxbury. A whole truckload of dresses, coats, bathrobes and other garments were left at Christmas Ship headquarters.

DONATE TO DRIVE

Downtown firms were taking up collections to purchase new clothing for the Christmas cargo. Today the hundreds of workers of the Employers Liability Assurance Corp. were making their donations for this campaign.

There was no letup among the 200,000 Greater Boston schoolchildren who have actively enlisted and the week-end promised to be a busy time for them, their parents and friends as the youngsters made up their Christmas Ship parcels.

Boy Scouts of Boston Council, Inc., numbering about 5500 youth in eight communities, were hard at work closing their "Do a Good Turn" week.

There is only one week more to put this campaign over the top.

Those who live in cities or towns distant from Boston should plan to have their parcels or boxes of clothing or shoes on the way to headquarters here early next week. The last case to be filled must be nailed down, ready for shipment by noon of Dec. 14.

More details of the Christmas Ship daily in the Record-American.

FREE RINGS FOR LUCKY COUPLES

Altar-bound couples! Here's a real wedding gift for you! And if you have been waiting for an opportune moment, then this is it.

Because the Boston Evening American, Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters and Rogers Jewelry stores are sponsoring this unique contest in which 25 couples will receive beautiful wedding rings absolutely free.

Beginning yesterday, "Third Finger, Left Hand," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's side-splitting love and laugh bout, starring Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas, opened at Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters.

Inspired by the title of this motion picture, 25 wedding rings will be awarded to couples marrying during the run of the picture at Loew's Theaters from December 3-11, to be exact.

So you see there's really nothing hard about this contest. First prize of a 10-diamond wedding ring will be presented to the "most ideal" couple marrying before Dec. 11; second prize is a 7 diamond wedding ring to the next "most ideal" couple; and a 5-diamond to the third couple selected by the judges, whose decision will be final.

The next 22 couples will receive fine wedding bands. These rings may be seen on display at Rogers Jewelry store on Washington st., which is presenting them.

The rules are very simple. If you intend marrying during the run of "Third Finger, Left Hand" at Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters, send a photograph of yourself and your intended with names, addresses, date of marriage and telephone number to the "Third Finger, Left Hand" Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass. Photographs must be postmarked before midnight, Sunday, Dec. 8.

Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas demonstrate in a scene from "Third Finger, Left Hand," a phase of life which is launched by a wedding ring. If you intend to be married before Dec. 11, you can win a wedding ring.

U. S. Destroyer Goes Aground, Freed

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Dec. 6 (AP)—The U. S. destroyer George O. Badger, which went aground in a heavy blow, was hauled off a ledge and today was found to be only slightly damaged.

The 21-year-old four-stacker, engaged in work in connection with a U. S. defense base here, will continue operations without the need of immediate repairs, it was announced.

MARLBORO HONORS INGALLS

MARLBORO, Dec. 6—Funeral services for Mayor Louis F. Ingalls were private today, but there was public tribute to his memory.

Flags on all public buildings were at half mast. Public school sessions were suspended. Stores and business offices planned to close between 2 and 3 p. m., when last rites were scheduled at the modest family home.

The City Council, meanwhile, scheduled a special meeting for Monday night to determine whether a special election shall be held to name a successor to Ingalls, whose body was found in Fort Meadow pond Tuesday. Temporarily, Michael Cronin, City Council head, is serving as mayor.

STRIKE MEDIATORS PICKED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (INS)—The Department of Labor assigned two conciliators, Omar Hoskins and Frank J. Ashe, to the strike of about 200 clerks in a large retail department store in Oakland, Cal.

HOOD'S MILK

Staying at Fiance's Home

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,

My sweetheart has invited me to meet his parents at their home in a distant state. I would like to know whether it is proper to stop at his home or stay at a hotel while visiting there? As yet I am not engaged to him.

It is entirely proper for you to stay at the home of his friend, if his mother, who is the hostess of the home, writes and invites you. You should not even consider accepting this invitation until you have received this invitation.

And it is entirely correct for you to suggest to this young man that you would like a direct invitation from his mother. Say something like this, "I'd love to come, Bob, but mother and I would be happy if your mother herself tells me that it would be agreeable to her and convenient for her if I come." This very often has to be done, so don't be so embarrassed about asking for this invitation. You can do it very graciously.

Since these people are so hospitable and friendly, it would be ungracious not to stay with them if the invitation is directly given by the mother.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like to know who is supposed to pay for the wedding invitations and to buy the wedding cake—the bride's parents or the groom.

The bride's parents.

Cooking

Banana Bran
Nut Bread

By MARTHA LEE

When men get together they eat for steak and apple pie, but when a woman entertains her bridge club or church society, she generally gets about doing some extra fancy cooking.

Take the matter of bread. If the menu calls for a salad lunch, most hostesses would not consider serving just ordinary everyday bread. Nor is there any reason why they should when there's banana bran bread, or pineapple tea muffins that can be made with so little trouble.

BANANA BRAN NUT BREAD

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup shortening
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup all bran
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups mashed bananas
1 tsp. vanilla extract
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. soda
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped nut meats

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Add bran, bananas and flavoring. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and soda together; add to first mixture with nut meats, stirring only until flour disappears. Bake in greased loaf pan with waxed paper in the bottom, in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about one hour. Makes one loaf ($4\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{2}$ in a pan).

PINEAPPLE TEA MUFFINS

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup shortening
2 tbsp. sugar
1 egg
1 cup honey
1 cup all-bran
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup drained, crushed pineapple
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
2 cups flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. soda

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat until creamy. Add honey, all-bran, pineapple and milk; mix well. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and soda; add to first mixture, stirring only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 25 minutes. Makes 2 dozen muffins (2 inches indiameter).

HAWAIIAN DREAM BARS

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup brown sugar
1 cup flour

Objects to Her Girl Friend

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

There are three of us girls who go around together. One has no relatives here except her grandparents. But as her grandfather isn't well, she boards out. The other girl and I have very nice homes.

My mother doesn't want me to chum around with the first girl because she boards, but she likes the second girl. She said if I continued to go with the first girl she would forbid my going out any where at all, and will take away other liberties, including buying some new clothes and a set of bedroom furniture.

I really hate to snub this girl, and the only solution I can see is that I go to another high school. We are all seniors. Shall I change schools or go with this girl against my mother's wishes? We three get along together and never have quarrels.

HELPLESS.
If there is nothing against this girl except that she boards, I must say I can understand your mother's attitude. Because your mother doesn't want you to have the girl as a friend is no reason to snub her.

If this association could be broken less cruelly by going to another high school perhaps you'd better take that course, as it's unthinkable for you deliberately to disobey your mother.

My sympathies are entirely with the girl who, through force of circumstances, has to board away from her grandfather's home. I wonder if older women, who object to their daughters' friends on seemingly unreasonable grounds, ever stop to think of the effect on the lives and characters of girls treated in such fashion.

You Can Be Beautiful

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1940

CUTE? You, too, can cut as pretty a figure, if your figure is up to it . . . so today Arline Gould comes through with a suggestion for a marvelous camphor reducing lotion formula, in her column. This is CBS actress Dorothy McGuire of the "Girl Interrupted" program, wearing the Lanz of Salzburg skating outfit of blue velvet.

This Formula For Reducing

By ARLINE GOULD

SOMETHING men don't understand . . . they don't have to . . . is the purely feminine reaction to clothes . . . the positive, tugging thrill of leaping through an advance collection of fashions . . . to see lazy-south play suits and new bathing suits . . . Amazon-like ski things . . . or fragile, floating evening frocks . . . makes a blizzard day bright, freezing weather almost balmy . . . and's the next best thing to being in love. Honest.

If your sojourn in these delightful pink dream clouds is of short duration . . . if you take just one look in the mirror and realize that those hips were never meant for a draped sarong swim suit . . . that the waistline would prevent you from looking exactly like the Snow Queen in a snow-girdled tulle . . . that the ski pants would point out your figure problems, but in detail renew your ambitions for a more perfect figure. And go to work with a camphor reducing lotion that's the standby of more famous theatrical beauties than we would be permitted to name.

No, it's not expensive. Though under a fancy trade name, you might pay dollars for a one-ounce generous bottle. It's not expensive because you can make it yourself, or have a druggist concoct it. There's no cooking or complicated mixing—just combining some simple ingredients.

It's to be used in connection with massage . . . and is such a very good help that your own efforts at such massage, which might have been futile before, are actually made effective.

There's nothing to prevent your having a favorite massage done at a local special shop and paying nothing for you. And it costs only a nickel for "each reduction."

For your copy of our letter giving the formula of the "camphor reducing lotion" and directions for using it, address me, care of the Boston American, and please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BLONDIE

Double Dare

DURING weeks of rehearsal, Brinda seized every chance to become familiar with the mysteries of Vaslav's abode. It was not easy, because there seemed to be soft-footed servants everywhere. But she persisted.

Most of all she sought the door from which had come the buzzing sound—like that of a powerful wireless set.

Then came a night she was sure she had found it. It had been a long evening—a final drilling of principals sandwiched in between the dress rehearsal and the public performance. She heard the others leaving; Vaslav telling them good-night.

For a moment the upper hallway was unoccupied. Her heart in her throat, Brinda crept along it until she came to the spot where the door should have been. But there was only a tapestried wall-hanging. She turned—and confronted Vaslav.

He looked at her smilingly, his black luminous eyes drinking in her slender loveliness.

"Ah," he said, softly, "you've discovered my little secret. Well . . . it was time." He touched the tapestry, and it slid aside, revealing a narrow gridded door. This, too, opened silently. "Will you please enter?" He bowed elaborately. Then, as Brinda hesitated, "Surely, you will not deny me the pleasure of satisfying your lovely curiosity my beautiful ballerina?"

her, and the little house elevator silently ascended. "My private retreat," said the Prince, opening the door. "You are more than welcome."

IN THE TRAP!

Brinda's glance swept the room. She saw the globe, the books, the spacious lounge. But there was no trace of any wireless. Then she realized the sound must have come from somewhere else in the building—some other room that also gave on the elevator shaft.

Under Vaslav's gaze, she became suddenly conscious of the completeness of her isolation from the outer world.

"Please sit down," he said. "No,

Brinda stabbed blindly. Swift as a cat, Vaslav slipped just far enough to let the blade go by, then seized her wrist.

"Drop it at once, please, or I shall have to hurt you!"

The dagger struck the floor and Vaslav picked it up . . . sent it spinning into a corner. "You really would have stabbed me, I believe!"

He folded his arms, contemplating her sadly. "And that is spite of my saving your life three times! Most ungrateful, to say the least."

"Saved my life?" Brinda looked her disbelief. "What do you mean?"

"Never mind; it isn't important. Perhaps I shall tell you some day."

Opening a delicately carved ivory case, he proffered a cigarette. She declined. With a shrug, he lit one himself.

"Well—I am sorry."

"That you saved my life?"

"That I irritated you to the point of trying to take mine . . . Can you forgive me?"

Was he making fun of her? Brinda searched his countenance but found no trace of mockery.

Without asking, she guessed that he would not oppose her now if she chose to leave. And that belief—the sudden transition from danger to security, coupled with the violent emotions she had just experienced—made her feel suddenly faint. She swayed, clung to a chair for support.

Vaslav was at her side in a flash. Strange, broken, passionate words of endearment and self-reproach poured from him as he lifted her gently, placing her on the wide lounge. She became aware that he was kneeling, anxiously imploring her pardon.

She had the sense of watching a play; a play she felt now she could safely see through to the end. "Please, Vaslav, get up!" He complied instantly. "No, don't stand . . . sit there . . . Now tell me. Just what is this about? I really think I have the right to know."

"I LOVE YOU!" He appeared to meditate for a moment, his eyes fixed beyond her. He nodded.

"Yes, that is true. But—for one reason only. Because—I love you! Wait—I give you my word that this is true—I have loved you from the first time we danced together—no woman has meant much to me before—I shall never love any other woman again!" His tone was vibrant with feeling. "And you may know I am not lying, because I say this realizing that you, of all women, do not love me." His eyes pierced her suddenly. "That's true, isn't it?"

"I'm sorry . . . I'm afraid it is." "Ah!" he exclaimed. "Did I didn't you run that knife in me?" He stared at her with despairing eyes. "It's curious . . . until tonight, I somehow fancied I was making progress." His tone was bitter. "Tell me, my beautiful, what is it? Why, of all women, should you be the one I cannot possess?"

What should she say? Of course it would be easy to tell him she was in love with Dick. But that would not help her learn the things she had to know.

"Perhaps," she said softly, after a moment of thought, "it is because you are so mysterious . . . well, frankly, because I don't really know you—I can't explain, but you seem to be like this house—full of strange, surprising secrets."

He nodded gravely. "That is understandable, my dear. But if that is all, it can easily be remedied."

"It can?" "Certainly," He spread his hands in a gesture of helplessness. "I shall simply tell you my secrets. What would you like to know?"

When I fell in love with you? It was the first time I saw you. At Mountwyln."

"Please!" Brinda broke in. "I mean your real secrets. For example, what did you mean when you said you had saved my life?" Vaslav blew a meditative smoke ring.

one moment—just stand there—let me look at you."

Without warning, his arms were about her holding her in a grip of steel.

She beat on his chest with her fists, but, from his superior height, he looked down at her with a smile that was a strange mixture of tenderness and ferocity.

With one hand he pinioned her wrists; with the other he bent back her head. Deliberately, he kissed her on the lips. She twisted her face away, and his kisses fell hotly on her cheeks and forehead.

Even while hated for Vaslav surged through her, Brinda was conscious for the first time of fear—a dread doubt that she could not defend herself. His voice was deep, soothing, possessive.

"Darling! I love you. Do you understand? I worship you!"

For a swift instant Brinda marvelled that she could have been foolish enough to put herself in his power. She felt helpless, trapped, afraid. . . . Afraid not only of Vaslav, but of the unfamiliar impulses that surged in her own being.

Unbidden, the thought came to her: What would Mata Hari do? And, instantly, she knew—as surely as though someone had whispered the words in her ear.

Steeling herself, she returned his kiss. She made her eyes languid, compelled herself to smile.

"You don't need to hold me," she whispered. "I shan't run away."

"You're sure?"

"Oh, yes, Vaslav—yes!"

Slowly he raised his right embrace. She slipped from his arms. Then, as he would have held her again, "Wait!" She twisted a displaced shoulder-strap into place. "You must be a bit terribly, don't you? Where did I go?"

She turned, pretending to scan the floor in search of something . . . Ah!—before Vaslav could divine her intention—she moved swiftly, purposefully. A bright object, thin and pointed, flashed in her hand. On the wall, an empty spot among Vaslav's trophies indicated the place whence the dagger had come.

Vaslav's face went hard and watchful.

"Clever!" he said, showing his teeth in a thin smile. "But unnecessary." He took a step toward her. "Besides . . . another step . . . I doubt that you would use it." One more step. "Will you?"

"I most emphatically shall!" Brinda clutched the hilt of the dagger tighter.

"Really? . . . I don't think so." He leaped.

LOEW'S 'THIRD FINGER, LEFT HAND' PROVES RICH FARE

Myrna Loy, Douglas Great

By PEGGY DOYLE

Love is everywhere, it would seem, in the magazine editor racket, which offers infinitely more opportunities for romance than those other highly exploited professions—those of an airline stewardess and a Hollywood glamorous girl.

This is something we deduced after gandering that tasty order of souflic Metro is dishing up this week on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

The story is as gossamer as those new nylon sheers. It is the deft performances of the co-starring Myrna Loy and Melvyn Douglas and Robert Z. Leonard's knowing direction that lift it every now and then into the featheriest and most entertaining nonsense.

The initial teaming of the perfect Mrs. Thin Man and the debonaire gentleman who had the great Garbo bursting out laughing for the first time in screen history was a happy thought. Each has a sense to client charm and comedy sense to overcome the script handicaps and together they achieve some really sick comedy sequences.

Magazine Editor Loy, who makes a breezy and handsome career-woman, has no right to wear a wedding band on that left third-finger. But she does because it's the one way she can keep the boss and likelier prospects (he's married) she mows down with a single green-eyed glance from pursuing her.

Douglas alone is dubious about that sudden marriage in Rio to a handsome stranger who has remained mysteriously missing ever since. He knows a newspaper man who knows South America like his back yard. He puts him to work on the story and the cable comes back that Rio's consulate and marriage bureau files fail to reveal evidence of such a marriage.

In love with the aloof Italy executive, Douglas, an artist who doesn't put all his ideas down on his drawing-board, walks into the amusing husband role with smiling nonchalance. Miss Loy is madder than what is familiarly known as a batter, but she must acquiesce in the arrangement or be revealed as a bachelorette after all. There is more levity than taste in the up in Myrna's room sequences, which varies the patter from some of those muffled by-the-censors screen comedies of recent vintage.

Felix Bressart, of fond "Natchez" memory, vignettes a fuzzy budget photographer with unerring skill and Bonita Granville, grown up into a charming young girl, plays Myrna's kid sister persuasively.

"Dr. Kildare's Crisis," which re-

BONITA GRANVILLE
Myrna Loy's Sister at Loew's

turne Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore and Lorraine Day to the screen in another chapter in M-C-M's excellent screen series, is up to standard and decidedly worth your attention.

Kay Francis, Oakie Star in Keith's 'Little Men'

By DON WARD

Kay Francis goes maternal in a big way in "Little Men," new film from the Louisa May Alcott novel, now at the Keith Memorial. Even more surprising than finding the stream-lined Kay in old Concord, is the jovial presence of Jack Oakie, as an addition to the Alcott cast in the role of a comedy safe-brother and escaped convict.

There are lots of nice young people in this story of a leisurely day when "Little Women" was the vogue and most of the excitement took place around the town pump. And then there's Elsie, the cow Elsie, you'll remember, is the bovine beauty who enthralled crowds at the New York World's Fair for a couple of seasons, and she has quite an important part in "Little Men," and makes the most of it.

George Bancroft has the fat role of Maj. Burdell, and among the younger generation are Jimmy Lydon, Ann Gillis, Richard Nichols, Casey Johnson, and other budding Hollywood stars.

From homespun New England you can go South in "One Night in the Tropics," which has the other half of the new Memorial program. Allen Jones brings his good voice to this one in some tunes by Jerome Kern, some grand nonsense by Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, who have deserted Broadway for their first screen appearance, and captivating Nancy Kelly for Allan's big moment.

pal, Robert Cummings, against marrying Nancy. Get it? Mary Boland flutters about effectively, Peggy Moran washes "Remind Me," prettily, and Leo Carillo and William Frawley are around to live this up.

CARDINAL PREPARES FOR 81ST BIRTHDAY WITH PLEA FOR PEACE

In observance of his 81st birthday Sunday, Cardinal O'Connell will ask the prayers of the people and lay of the world to bring peace to the world and divine guidance to the leaders of this country.

Today, the head of the American hierarchy was completing his arrangements for a busy schedule on his 81st birthday, which is being celebrated in the privacy of his home.

Previous to his annual birthday dinner with the press at his lake at residence tomorrow morning, his eminence issued the following statement published in the paper:

SPIRIT OF HARMONY

"The prayer of my heart and soul on that day will be one of profound gratitude to Almighty God for the countless graces I have received from His bountiful hand through all the years. Not the least among these graces I count the loyal and devoted co-operation which I have received from my priests and people and the beautiful spirit of harmony that exists between us all.

"Let us all unite in beseeching the Queen of Peace to intercede with her Divine Son that He may send His peace to the distracted world, and His wise counsel and prudent direction to the leaders of our beloved country that we may continue in that peace which is one of heaven's choicest gifts."

TO CELEBRATE MASS

His Eminence will celebrate a solemn high pontifical mass in Holy Cross Cathedral, Sunday morning.

He will make two addresses Sunday, the first before members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society following their mass and communion breakfast at the cathedral.

He will appear in the afternoon at the 2nd of the League of Women at their headquarters, 1 Arlington st., Back Bay.

His Eminence also hopes to attend the dedication of the William O'Connell lot in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury. This memorial lot will provide a place of Christian burial for those who die in endless and alone.

Sentence Blum's Aide

On Desertion Charge

Vichy France, Dec. 6 (AP)—Pierre Venot, undersecretary of state in Leon Blum's old popular front government, was sentenced today to eight years imprisonment and loss of civil rights for 20 years on charges of wartime desertion. However, the Clermont-Ferrand military tribunal suspended the punishment.

AUSTEN LAKE

Nature's Child: Or the Man Who'll Lick Louis

SOME DAY—NOT NOW, OR NEXT WEEK—but some day, a bony youngster, rippling with muscle, aquiver with animal ferocity, gifted with abnormal nervous reflexes, will chew Joe Louis into a ghastly hulk and another fight era will end. But not yet!

Austen Lake

Somewhere in the land, at this moment, that kid who will lick Louis is growing up. He's about 19 now, rugged offspring of hard-working, poor parents, a hardy lad weaned on adversity and schooled to hardship—perhaps from a farm, or a tenement, or docks or mines. That makes no matter!

Four—maybe five, years hence a hush will fall over the vast acres of the Yankee Stadium as the announcer barks into the ring amplifiers, "Th' winnah an' noo champeen." Louis will be sitting on his corner stool in a comatose condition snuffing restoratives and being patched back to consciousness. The sepia skin that was once sleek will show bulges above the elastic tip of his ring fights. The lightning flick of once-instant reflexes will have lost its zipp. But not yet!

Fact is that the first slight signs of physical decay are showing now in his deliberate shufflings at the Friend Street fight studio. His thighs are thicker, a little extra layer of lard is apparent, the old tiger zest is dwindling. Or so it seems. He's 26 now, young in years but verging toward athletic middle age. The horizon is not far away.

Best brains in fight business

JOHN ROXBOROUGH, THE SOPHISTICATED, intelligent man of medium shade who looks like a Cuban and handles Louis' fiduciary affairs, knows it. He realizes that social demands, the round of luxury, the accumulation of property, the intensive hero worship and a natural leaning toward indolence, is taking toll spiritually and physically. So that is why Roxborough arranged this fight with Al McCoy and why at frequent intervals he is trying, almost hysterically, to keep his meal-ticket grinding away. Not for the money he makes in these champ soups, but to slave off fatty degeneration, mental drop and the first frays of physical winter.

Louis is lucky for being surrounded by the smartest brains in the prize fight business. Gentlemen Johnny is his fiscal handler, a pleasant man with a pussy-cat smile and a shrewd psychological grasp on human reactions than any of his white contemporaries. Jack Blackburn, gold-toothed, razor creased and bald as an 8 ball, is his technical adviser—canny as a jungle leopard, smart as a hunt club fox. They and their sleepy-eyed protege, their brains and his muscle, have made a million!

To them and to him fortune has been kind. For Louis owes his championship to the circumstance of his mammy moving away from the gray-stubble fields of Mississippi where he might have hoed his life away in the cotton rows with no inkling that he had the super-ultra gifts of nature in his frame. So he went to Detroit where there were settlement house gyms and a fighting chance.

Because I believe that there are other Joe Louises, Babe Ruths, Eddie Shores, Jack Dempseys, Lefty Groves, Bobby Joneses, Bill Tildens and athletic geni hidden away in the grassland or cobblestone regions with no knowledge of their physical wealth and no means of revealing it. So, no doubt, many a fine batting eye is wasting its sweetness on a factory binder or milling machine and many a potential champion is scraping off lunchheart platters or tinkering with the gizzards of an auto

How to store energy!

SO THE SOMNAMBULANT NEGRO BOY, bulky in his loose-fitting ulster, slouched into the Friend st. fight laboratory with a comet tail of hangers-on. There was nothing to stamp him as the world's most pitiless mauler, the fistie freak with the reflexes of a mountain cat. His handshake was as limp as a fresh caught herring, his speech languid, slurred and unaimed, his eyes heavy with boredom.

There is no outward sign that Louis possesses a spark of imagination.

Jack Sharkey To Attend Monte Fete

Plans for the Joe Monte testimonial at K. of C. Hall, Brockton, on Sunday night, Dec. 15, are nearing completion, and the committee in charge expects many outstanding members of the fistie fraternity to be present to honor Brockton's former ring star who recently underwent an operation for the removal of his left eye, the result of an injury suffered during his ring days.

Squire Jack Sharkey, former world heavyweight champion, has assured the committee he will attend, as has Jim Maloney,

7 SCHOOL GRID GAMES CANCELLED BY SNOW

Schoolboy football's attempt to buck the weatherman met with another setback today when cold weather, frozen ground, and snow caused cancellation of almost the entire Saturday program.

Games, postponed from Thanksgiving day, had been rescheduled for tomorrow afternoon with the hope that the playing fields might be in better condition but new snowfall left gridirons in practically all sections in unplayable condition.

From the original card of nine tilts, only two remained with decisions still pending on these at noon today. Natick high school officials were to travel to Framingham today to check conditions of the field. Decision on the Canton-Stoughton game was withheld until tomorrow morning.

Headlining the list of cancellations was the Rindge Tech-Somerville fray at Tufts Oval, Medford. This series is one of the oldest in schoolboy ranks, dating back to 1891. The interruption is the first since 1935.

Faculty Manager Bob Buckley made every possible attempt to go through with the game. Before Thanksgiving day, Buckley had snow plows on the Oval trying to clear the field and this week the grid squad tried its hand but to no avail.

Watertown's intended invasion of Belmont, another battle of long standing in scholastic circles had to be put off because of the condition of the field. The Concord-Lexington, Dedham Norwood, and Walpole-Franklin meetings likewise were cancelled.

126-Pound Champ Seeks '135' Crown

Bill Daley of Roxbury, New England All-America 126-pound champion in 1933, will be seeking his second crown when he faces the cream of 135 pounders in Monday night's tourney finals at the Garden.

"BE CONSISTENT"—Bill Daley, Roxbury, can't believe scales from day to day. Bill weighs 125 today, 135 tomorrow. Last year he won N. E. All-America 126-pound diadem. This year he's fighting in 135's. His weight vacillates between the feather and lightweight poles.

Daley, New England representative in the National All-America finals in San Francisco, Cal., last year, is regarded as one of the outstanding amateur mitt tossers in this section, having won no less than 150 battles in three years.

Though Daley copped almost every 126-pound title in local tournaments here last year, he has outgrown the featherweight class and will make a bid for a higher class crown.

TASTY OR FAVORITE

Followers of amateur boxing note the lightweight division as the toughest of the eight open classes on the program, so Daley will be in for no soft evening when he collides with such leather-tossers as Steve Bomal, Lowell's truck driver and Golden Gloves champion; Orlando Clifton of East Boston and Francis Welch, the Lowell student, who was one of the favorites in the trial sessions.

Orlando Fantl, 15-year-old Lynn laborer, will be a favorite in the 113 pounds against Joe Landry, 20-year-old Gardner boy, who last season won the N. E. A. A. U junior flyweight title; Frank Martin, 22-year-old Plymouth laborer with a record of 37 victories in two years and John McKinnon, 19-year-old Boston contender.

SHOW STARTS AT 7:30

No fight fan can afford to miss the 160 pounds bouts—James Harvey, So. Boston milkman with 24 wins in the last year; Sal Ce-ano, Boston boy and present Golden Gloves champion; Tommy Hill, Lowell laborer, who led Lowell's Pacino a couple of weeks ago in a most sensational bout, and Pacino himself, the N. E. 1940 champion.

There will be 32 bouts Monday 24 in the eight open classes and eight in the novice divisions. The show will get under way at 7:30.

The winners in the open competition on Monday night will be selected to represent Boston in the Eastern All-America Championships, which will also be held at the Garden on December 23.

Louis, Godoy Meet 3d Time in April

DETROIT, Dec. 6 (AP)—Boxer Mike Jacobs announced today that Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis would defend his title for a third time against Arturo Godoy, the Chilean, at Los Angeles 15 April in the windup of Joe's "swing tour."

Ends From Colgate, Cornell on All-East

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 6 (AP)—Larry Cabelli, smashing Colgate end, from Newark, N. J., and Jim Schmuck, outstanding Cornell wing, have been added to All-East football squad that plays the All-West team in San Francisco on New Year's Day. Andy Kerr, coach of the eastern athletes, announced.

WESLEYAN LEADERS

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., Dec. 6 (AP)—The Wesleyan soccer team has elected Ralph W. Muckley, Jr., of Grafton, N. J., as 1934 captain and named Arthur A. Schuck of Maplewood, N. J., as manager.

SPORT-O-GRIMES

One of the smartest moves Bill Terry has ever made in baseball was Tony Cuccinello's appointment to manage Jersey City. Tony was a brainy ball player, and moreover he has teaching ability. While with the Bees he rendered valuable help in the development of Sibby Sisti, Bill Wietelmann, Bama Rowell and Eddie Miller.

Johnny Chipman, who is one of the best centre ice men in the college ranks, didn't figure in any of the first six goals N. U. scored against Harvard. But he did get the seventh and final one. Frank W. Leahy has been attending three and four luncheons, dinners and get-togethers daily since the Holy Cross game.

Five years ago, the Red Sox paid $75,000 for a battery, Ostermuller and Hinkle. Where are they today?

The Bruins worked out in Maple Leaf Gardens today and will jump over to Chicago tomorrow night. They will not be home until Tuesday noon.

Even though they haven't many Eastern Amateur Hockey League victories to their credit, the Olympics will pack 'em in at the Garden tomorrow night and Sunday.

day afternoon, when they play River Vale and New York Rangers.

After watching Joe Louis work out at Buckley's gymnasium, Jack Sharkey said: "That's not the Louis I fought." The betting on the Louis-McCoy fight is that Al will answer the bell starting the fifth round. The best bet is that there will not be an unsold ticket.

Somebody should investigate the poll which gave more votes to Lafayette than Cornell for the Lambert Trophy. Apparently, the meeting which the N. H. L. held on Wednesday in New York was one of those "off the record" gatherings. The N. H. L. has always been very liberal giving out straight publicity but it is tight with its news items.

tion. And when I said, "Joe, it's a long time since you were in Boston last. Your world has changed since then," he just grunted, "Huh" and lapsed into wall staring. Well and why not? You don't expect a flow of philosophical oratory from a man devoted to the finer, cultural arts of thwacking chins.

He had come six scant years ago, a nobody from nowhere, a tattered-demon tan boy with food problems and a background of tenement squalor. And today he lives in Oriental luxury, wealthy with a fawning circle who regard him as the angel of dark deliverance. For here is the perfect fighting animal, a man whose only gift is destruction, and one whose prankish nature has endowed with a perfect telegraph system 'twist eye, mind and muscle. Yet the greatest of his talents is his power to sleep standing up and store man hours of energy. Above anybody I ever met in the athletic business, Louis is most immune to impressions, impervious to distractions and such human static. So that once, before the Galento fight I asked, "What do you think about when you are sitting on your corner stool waiting for the bell?" and he had replied with a perplexed stare, "Nuthin'".

I am convinced that such is the proper answer.

This is no slur on Louis! He has, and for a brief interval will keep it, more of what it takes than any other glove fighter in the ring. As instinctive as a panther in action, he has the same slack lethargy in repose. And he is cut to the measure of only one thing—first fighting.

The dry stubble of those old cotton fields, the red gumbo in the cabin dooryard, the kinky kid and slow change of the Southern seasons, the factory chimes, the stale stench of tumble down gymnasia, the elementary amateur sock-and-blocks, the first climb to fist prominence—all are very far behind. Today "Chappie," as Blackburn calls him, is a landed squire with a suburban ranch, estates, insurance trusts, a chicken-waffle restaurant, Harlem hosannahs and a potful of minted dollars. Slowly and inexorably fortune is exacting its price—a gradual distaste for struggle and extreme physical effort. The end is growing near. But not yet!

Angel to Defend Title For Newspaper Post

The Angel, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, makes his second title defence of the season in a Boston ring Wednesday night, when he clashes with Leo Numa, blond ace from California, at the Boston Arena.

The match headlines a charity show to be sponsored by the Boston Newspapers Post, 300, American Legion. A portion of the proceeds will be devoted to the Legionnaires' Christmas charity fund. Numa won the right to battle The Angel when he won impressively in his last showing. Seldom has Leo looked better, and all agreed that he was the man best fitted to put his skill against The Angel's immense strength.

Both The Angel and Numa will train here, they announced yesterday. Numa, in fact, started conditioning himself yesterday after receiving some sage advice from several wrestlers who have met The Angel. All explained in detail about the weird looking one's "bear hug" and, though they all felt into it, Numa carefully listened to all they had to say.

N. H. L. Clubs Try New Type Of Face-Off

Art Ross, manager of the Bruins, announced preparatory to the team's leaving for Toronto that for the next two weeks the Bruins and other National Hockey League teams would experiment in practice with a new type of face-off.

The changed face-off rule being tried out calls for the puck being placed on the ice. The opposing centers will face with their sticks 12 inches on the ice away from puck. At the referee's whistle they will

TOM HILL OF Lowell, a 160-pound boxer, proved the sensation of the All-America diamond belt championship trial bouts. Hill will be in the New England finals at the Garden on Monday night, and says he will be a champion when he leaves the ring.

Larry Pacino of Roxbury once more blocks the path to Hill's goal. Pacino is the New England middleweight champion. He is a well put together youngster with better than an average knowledge of boxing, and the ability to land a solid blow with each hand.

Pacino entered the second of the trial tournaments, and he believed he would not experience any trouble qualifying. In the final bout, Pacino had Hill as an opponent.

Hill had been driven from Lowell in a friend's car. He was an unknown, and it was not believed that Pacino would experience any difficulty defeating him.

Pacino shared with the common belief, and soon he had Hill on the floor. It looked like a soft touch for the Roxbury middleweight.

In all, Hill was knocked down five times. Each time he came up fighting.

After the fifth knockdown, Pacino figured the bout would soon be over. Pacino rushed forward, tossing blows with both hands.

Hill suddenly pulled back, and smashed left and right-hand punches to the body. Every ounce of power in Hill's body was behind the blows. They were the punches of a desperate, determined boy, who knew he must score a knockout to win.

Pacino doubled up under the power of the blows, dropped to the canvas and was counted out. It was one of the most unexpected and sensational endings to a ring contest ever held in Boston.

BACK IN HIS dressing room, Pacino rubbed his aching limbs and then asked his seconds what had happened.

"Hill knocked you out, Larry," said George Freeman. Pacino couldn't understand the whole thing for several minutes.

"I am going to box in next week's trials," he finally said to Freeman. "This time I'll box better and win, and then I'll catch up with Hill in the New England finals at the Garden."

Pacino did win last Monday night, and now hopes that he draws Hill as his opponent in the final of the 160-pound class on Monday night.

Pacino and Hill are of championship caliber, and they are sure to give their share of thrills in the New England finals.

There will be bouts in the eight championship classes in the open and also in the novice division.

It is the show of shows for our New England champions. The card is offered at the usual popular price scale of 55 cents and $1.10. The committee in charge of the All-America tournament has always insisted that all bouts through the New England finals be at a price scale that is within the reach of everyone.

CHET GLADCHUK, 232-pound Boston College center, will be one of the real threats for Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl game on New Year's Day . . . I met Gladchuk and several other Boston College players at Posner's on School st., getting gloves and other clothing for their trip to New Orleans . . . Gladchuk is six feet five inches tall, and was an imposing sight as he fitted himself to a new pair of gloves.

Mrs. Mary Posner, widow of the late Dave Posner, lives in Chestnut Hill near Boston College, and she was at the store when the football stars dropped in . . . Mrs. Posner has not missed a home Boston College game this season, and is considering making a trip to the Sugar Bowl contest . . . Dave Posner was one of the leading sports fans in Boston for years . . . Boxing was his favorite sport, and he was usually in a first row seat when an important bout was held . . . Dave was one of the best judges of boxing I knew . . . Like Mrs. Posner, he was eager to see local athletes become national sports figures.

Unfortunately for Boston College, Gladchuk will graduate in June . . . If it had not been for the brilliant playing of this roving center, Holy Cross would have beaten the Eagles. Gladchuk, like Charley O'Rourke, is All-America in my book.

As the Boston College team will leave for Bay St. Louis before Christmas, the members of the squad are doing their Christmas shopping early.

CHARLEY O'ROURKE will delay consideration of professional offers until after Boston College's game with Tennessee . . . There are several professional clubs seeking O'Rourke's services, and he can write his own ticket . . . "Whizzer" White received the largest salary ever paid a first year professional player when he was signed for $10,000 by Pittsburgh . . . The average run of professional players get around $5,000 a year.

Sammy Baugh, greatest forward passer in professional football, made the Redskins a success, and it is believed that O'Rourke can do as much for some other professional club . . . If a modern football club is to get anywhere, it must have a top forward passer . . . Dick Harlow considers O'Rourke the equal of Dave O'Brien who has done so well in professional football.

Sheldon Fairbanks of the Boston Bears will try to get a few minutes with O'Rourke before the latter makes a definite decision about his football future.

SOX RETURN WITH GROUCH

Eddie Collins, Joe Cronin, Tom Daly and Frank Shellmback, Red Sox chieftains, were to arrive in Boston this afternoon from the minor league meeting in Atlanta, Ga., very much empty-handed.

Not only empty-handed but with a grouch on their respective countenances one could see from here to Baltimore.

The Sox officials really had expected to do some business in Atlanta, and they started off with a bang. They got rid of Pitchers Fritz Ostermueller and Denny Galehouse the very first day, and then seemed to have Doc Cramer traded to the White Sox for Mike Kreevich.

But the Cramer-Kreevich deal never came to pass, and that is why the Sox quartet are coming home with long faces.

Cramer, disgruntled last year at being shifted from center field to right, will be impossible to handle from herein, and now the Sox must get rid of him if they have to give him away. Collins is so bugged up at Jimmy Dykes, Chisox manager, that he threatens to report the matter to Commissioner Landis.

The Sox hope to do better at the major league meetings which open Tuesday in Chicago. Danny MacFayden has signed with the Washington Senators, his sixth major league affiliation. Danny has been with both Boston clubs, the Yanks, the Reds and the Pirates . . . Paul Warner, released by the Pirates, would make a fine pinch hitter for some club . . . Bob Bowman, purchased from the Cardinals by the Giants at a reported price of $50,000, is the boy who beamed Ducky Medwick last year. He has been in the majors only two years.

Manhattan Renews Series With Hoyas

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (INS)—Manhattan will renew gridiron relations with Georgetown in a Thanksgiving Day tussle on New York on Nov. 20 of next year, Herb Kopf, director of athletics at Manhattan, announced today.

Wings Rout Hawks, 5-1

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (INS)—Doming three goals into the Chicago net in less than 10 minutes, the Detroit Red Wings scored to an easy 5 to 1 victory over the Black Hawks in a National Hockey League game witnessed by only 7567. Five previous games were averaged better than 10,000 attendance. Eddie Wares, Jimmy O'Donnell and Alex Motter were the Detroiters who dazed the Hawks into submission as they counted three times over a span of 9:25 minutes in the first period.

92 Named In $100,000 Handicap

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1940

SANTA ANITA, Cal., Dec. 6 (INS)—Some of the greatest race horses in the world—92 in number and topped by Chaldeon—have been named for the seventh running of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, scheduled for March 1, next year.

Although short of the record number of 107 nominations for the 1933 race, the total named proved higher than Santa Anita officials expected.

From England, South America and New Zealand, as well as from the important racing sections of the United States, come the horses which have been named for the "hundred grand."

Louis B. Mayer, film executive, breeder and owner, topped the list by naming seven, including Hunter's Moon, the English horse which won the Cresswell, one of Britain's famous races.

With the nominations in, the next item of importance is the assigning of weights by Racing Secretary Webb Everett.

Indications are that Chaldeon will carry high weight at the top of 135 with a possible scaling down to 130, the weight carried to victory by Seabiscuit last year. Chaldeon was assigned 128 pounds for the race last winter, but did not run.

Interesting angles in connection with the nominations include the fact that only two females were named—Be Jabbera, a six-year-old mare, and Fairy Chant, four-year-old filly.

STANFORD BACKS DAZZLE AP EXPERT

3 Out of 4 Make First Coast Team

By RUSSELL NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6 (AP)—Stanford, conference champion and Rose Bowl nominee, and University of Washington, close runner-up, each placed four players on the 1940 Associated Press All-Pacific Coast football team, announced today.

Oregon State, third place finisher in the race, landed two men on the mythical varsity eleven, and University of California accounted for the other position.

Every player in the far West, regardless of affiliation is eligible for the team, but the 16th annual consensus poll of sports writers, officials and coaches voted the honor only to Pacific Coast Conference men.

Dean McAdams, crack halfback of University of Washington, was the only repeater. As was the case last season, he made the team by a solid vote.

Frank Albert, who quarterbacked Stanford to its greatest season in history, polled the largest individual vote. He was the choice of every expert.

Bob Reinhard, California tackle, drew the second highest popular vote.

Stanford, in addition to Albert, placed Fred "eyer," end, Pete Kmetovic, halfback, and Norman Standlee, fullback.

Washington's McAdams was accompanied by Jay MacDowell, end, Rudy Mucha, center, and Ray Frankowski, guard.

Oregon State's two representatives were Vic Sears, tackle, who barely nosed out Jim Stuart of Oregon and Leonard Younce, a kicking specialist, at guard.

BEST IN WEST—This backfield of unbeaten Stanford placed three of its four members on AP All-Pacific Coast eleven. Left to right: Hugh Gallarneau (out), Norman Standlee, Frankie Albert, Pete Kmetovich. But Gallarneau made second team. All four will be seen in action again New Year's Day when Stanford faces once beaten Nebraska in Rose Bowl.

One Kick Blocked in 191 Tries O'Rourke's 3-Year B. C. Record

By BILL GRIMES

During his three years of varsity football with the Boston College Eagles, Charlie O'Rourke, 157-pound bombshell from Malden, has established an enviable record as a ground gainer, passer and punter.

O'Rourke has advanced various piggskins through the air or over the ground a total of 2135 yards, which is almost one and one quarter miles.

Aside from the yardage he picked up for the Eagles, O'Rourke's most outstanding feat is that of the 191 times he was called upon to punt, he was successful in all but one occasion.

The only punt he failed to get off was in the Georgetown game, and that one set up the first Hoya touchdown.

There is a fine story behind that blocked kick.

When the Eagles returned to their dressing between the halves Gene Goodreault, All-America end, went over to Head Coach Frank W. Leahy.

"Coach, I was responsible for that blocked kick," confessed Goodreault, "and it looks right now as though it would cost Boston College the ball game."

"What do you mean, Gene?" queried Leahy, who knew very well what was in the player's mind. Leahy had seen what had happened on the kick to allow Fullilove, the Georgetown tackle, to break through and ruin O'Rourke's perfect record.

"Well, Coach, Charlie is so fast getting off his punts," explained Goodreault, "that I haven't been carrying out my assignments."

"I should have checked Fullilove before I crossed the scrimmage line. But I figured Charlie would get the kick off without any help from me, and the punt was blocked."

"That's a very fine attitude for you to take, Gene," complimented Leahy. "I congratulate you on your sportsmanship. And, don't worry, we'll pull this one out and all will be forgiven." They did, and all was O'Rourke's record:

Larger Floor For N. U. Five

Northeastern's varsity basketball team, which starts active practice tonight, will have a full-sized floor at its disposal.

The Johnson Memorial Gymnasium has had a $50,000 face lifting since last spring.

In the past the Husky court has been somewhat narrower than regulation figures, and the players frequently landed in the laps of spectators on one side or bumped into the brick wall on the other. The court has been widened by eight feet and there will be plenty of clearance on both sides.

Harvard Five Favored In Opener With Tech

A speedy veteran Harvard team should have little trouble in downing M. I. T. in the season's debut for both teams at 8 o'clock in the Tech Hangar tonight.

Lacking height necessary to compete with most of the teams in the Ivy Circuit, Coach Wm. Fessler, soon to depart for Wesleyan, has developed an offense built around a fast break and speed.

The Crimson will take the court this evening with a team of juniors who played most of the season as a unit last year.

"We have been working pretty well together so far," said Fessler today. "The team has looked good at times, and I think we will make a fairly good showing. We're pretty well set with the exception of center."

If Fessler can work either Ed Rotschild or Homer Peabody into a smooth combination, the Cantabs may go places this year. Peabody was out of action all last year with a bad knee.

Rotschild is not a very good shot and rather slow despite his novel experiments to increase his speed by wearing a pair of steel shoes to make him feel lighter when he takes them off.

Harvard's offensive power is pretty well distributed with center the only weak position. Ed Buckley of Ely, Minn., Harvard's high scorer last year, is again on hand and probably will be the leading threat.

Coach Fessler has filled the vacancy at forward as a result of Charlie Lutz's graduation by shifting Joe Romano from guard to one of the forward berths.

Coach Henry McCarthy of Tech will start Capt. Howie Samuels and John Whelan at forwards, Tom Dolan at center, and Sam Glick and Ernie Art at guard in an effort to repeat Tech's 41-28 win over the Cantabs last year.

The powerful Harvard cub team is favored to make short work of Tech's fresh team. The Crimson has the best yearling team in years with Bob Lutz, brother of Harvard's last year's captain, from Gary, Ind., as the chief offensive threat.

Ski BY "TAP" GOODENOUGH Scribblings

ONE MILLION SKIS IN ACTION! That is approximately the number of hickorys that have flashed through swirling snows since Thanksgiving Day in New England! And all the skiers haven't turned out yet to enjoy mid-season conditions at the earliest date in years! So limber up now and wax your skis; check your equipment. Skiers, your time is here again! . . .

The Cannon Mountain Aerial Tramway in Franconia Notch, N. H., will operate this week-end. The official opening date, however, will be December 14, after which the Tram will run daily . . .

There are about two feet of settled powder on the trails, and better than fair skiing can be reported. The Ski Patrol has side-stepped the entire Cannon and Tram Ravine trails, so that "good skiing may develop . . .

A late flash says skiing is excellent in Lincoln and North Woodstock, N. H. There are 22 inches of snow, with 5 ne w powder. Tows are going . . .

At Plymouth, N. H., skiing is good. Wendy's Ski School has opened, and tows are running. The Huckin's Hill Tow may start this week-end . . .

Laconia reports good running at the area. All tows are going, and Freddy Nachbauer is holding ski classes . . .

Conditions are so good in the Eastern Slopes Region that the Boston & Maine will run the earliest snow train in years on Sunday to North Conway. The Skimo-hile will be ready for the crowds.

At Bridgton, Maine, the tow is conveying eager skiers up Mt. Pleasant. The Hut there is open, serving food and warmth. Christmas Tree Inn is offering all ice sports at their best early season.

Up yonder in Vermont, the country's longest ski lift is in full swing on Mount Mansfield, where ideal conditions prevailed. Tows are being speeded along at Pico Peak in Rutland, as well.

Truly, the decided trend of skiing is ever upwards, but the skiers come down!

SKI SPORTRAIT — Attention, girls! The "Tyronne Power of ski instructors" is now working at Sportcraft ski shop on Chauncy st. Handsome, single and only 23, this lad's engaging smile and courteous ways are winning many friends for Sportcraft and skiing. His name is Heinrich Hoher, but you may call him Harry!

A certified Swiss and U. S. E. A. S. A. ski instructor, this likeable lad first came to our land last year, and during the winter he taught scores how to handle their hickorys at the Plymouth Swiss Ski School. This season, however, Harry is going to be affiliated with the famous Franconia Ski School under Peter Gabriel . . .

In his native country of Switzerland our young maestro started to ski at the age of 10. He also did a great deal of mountain climbing, having scaled more than 25 precipitous peaks of 12,000 feet and over. Displaying his versatility, Harry found time to play for a championship Swiss amateur handball team as well. And he likes to dance!

"Compulsory military training will turn out very fit young men," declared Harry, who had a year's training himself and now holds a lieutenant's commission in the Swiss army. "And the forming of ski troops here will help the spread of skiing," he continued . . .

To this chap, skiing means the greatest amateur form of athletic endeavor in which everyone—all ages and all races—can freely participate. The sport gives the masses of this country an opportunity to gain valuable exercise and health . . .

Queried about ski competition, Harry declares that racing improves and develops technique. Time and effort are required to train correctly. A fellow who wants to race should strive to be the best, or else not compete! He also thinks that cross country skiing should be encouraged more . . .

A thorough teacher, he stresses the fundamentals, control, and the orthodox ways of instructing. His favorite ski terrain in New England is on Cannon Mountain . . . SKI CLUB SCOOP: Skiers! Circle Dec. 20 on your calendars at once!

HARRY HOHER
Sportcraft Ski
Instructor

On this date will take place one of the biggest skiing events ever sponsored locally. In back of all this activity is the Needham Ski Club. This organization started with 10 members and grew to 20 in five weeks, the membership now being closed. We will give full details on this event in next Wednesday's column . . .

SCOUTING . . . SKI SPOTS — At Plymouth, N. H., Wendy Hilly, head of his ski school there tells us that a nold-time weather prophet has predicted that "this snow is going to last and we're going to have lots more!" His belief is founded on the facts that almost all of the birds have gone and that the mud worms are down deeper than they have been for a good many years! Let's hope the worms won't turn . . .

A special feature in Plymouth this winter will be a combination ticket for Wendy's slope, Huckin's Hill and Frontenac. There will also be a combination season ticket for $12.50, which will entitle the purchaser to the use of any of the tows at any time during the season . . .

The Penikeseasset has bought a portable ski tow which will be available for the use of parties on any of the Plymouth Hills. The indoor rink at the "Peni" will be ready for more "hot" hockey games . . .

SKI SHOTS: Our mistake! Last week we located the "Johann's" ski shop on the wrong street. His nice place is on Friend st., where Bjarne is indeed a friend to all skiers . . .

Winter sports coaches and officials will attend a meeting Sunday at Proctor Academy, Andover, N. H., under the auspices of the National Ski Association. Experts will talk on prep school ski meets . . .

On the same day, Mass. State College will play hosts to the Western Mass. Winter Sports Council and recreational skiers. A round table discussion will be headed by Roger Langley, president of the N. S. A. . . .

GOODREULT ON COLLIER'S 'ALL'-TEAM

Copyright, 1944, by Collier's
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Selections for Collier's annual All-American football team, a perpetuation of the All-American started by Walter Camp in Collier's in 1889, were announced today. The players are:

Ends: David Rankin, Purdue; Gene Goodreult, Boston College.
Tackles: Robert Reinhard, California; Alfred Badman, Northwestern.

Guards: Agostino Lio, Georgetown; Robert Suffridge, Tennessee. Center: Rudy Mucha, Washington. Quarterback: Frank Albert, Stanford.

Halfbacks: Thomas Harmon, Michigan, George Franck, Minnesota.

Fullback: John Kimbrough, Texas A. & M.

In awarding the Walter Camp gold football to these players, Collier's states that "the campaign of 1940 surpasses any in history for the number of fine teams and high-grade stars," and doubts that "any past season has shown as many 'All-American' teams are based on nominations from the Collier's many exceptionally good teams."

Final selections for this oldest Board, made up of veteran football writers who carry the full faith of their sections, and also are checked against the opinions of rival coaches against every leading entry.

More than 500 telegrams were received and some 200,000 words written in assembling the All-American nominations.
